Nixon defense in Watergate case expected momentarily

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will break his self-imposed silence on Watergate either Wednesday or Thursday and issue a detailed defense against charges that he was aware of efforts to cover up the scandal, White House sources said Monday.

Sources said Nixon will use the statement, coupled with an appearance on national television, to proclaim he is innocent of any intentional wrongdoing and plead that the scandal cause no further interruption in the work of his administration.

The detailed "white paper," which a team of White House lawyers headed by Leonard Garment and J. Fred Buzhardt have been preparing for several weeks, will be Nixon's first public statement since May 22 on the question of whether he knew about the Watergate break-in or efforts to cover it up.

He remained silent throughout 37 days of Senate hearings in which his associates were accused of misusing campaign funds, destroying evidence in a criminal case and otherwise obstructing justice, bribing witnesses and selling their influence for campaign contrbutions.

The accusations have, in the view of most observers, presented Nixon with the most serious crisis in his three decades of public life. Virtually all of his time for the past several weeks has been devoted to preparing the response.

White House officials said the detailed document that Nixon intends to release will be similar to a legal brief and will respond specifically to the charges by ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III that the President indicated in conversations as early as last Sept. 15 that he was aware of the Watergate cover-up.

Sources said Nixon will devote his television speech to an appeal to the "court of public opinion" which the President believes will make the ultimate judgment. They said he will accept responsibility for not keeping a closer watch on former White House officials who were acting in his name, but will deny that he ever covered up any wrongdoing.

The precise form of the appeal reportedly was under intense debate during Nixon's stay at Camp David, Md. He returned from the mountain retreat Sunday night after having spent part of each of the previous 10 days there, most of the time conferring with top-level aides such as Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, speech writers Raymond Price and Patrick J. Buchanan, lawyers Garment and Buzhardt and others.

He held another series of meetings with several of these aides Monday, interrupting the meeting only long enough to sign a three-year extension of the highway aid bill.

According to White House officials, the President has been urged by some of his aides to take a hard-line approach — accusing the Senate Watergate committee of attempting to destroy him politically and accusing special prosecutor Archibald Cox of going beyond his mandate by engaging in a political witchhunt.

Other aides have urged a more moderate approach, one which would avoid polarization of public opinion and put the Watergate affair into "proper perspective" beside the more compelling problems of the nation.

Map may lead to new graves in Texas case

HOUSTON (UPI) — An east Texas sheriff said today a hand-scrawled map of possible new gravesites and "many other items of evidence" had been found in a cabin used by a homosexual bachelor accused of killing at least 27 young boys in the worst mass murder in modern U. S. history.

San Augustine County Sheriff John Hoyt said the map pinpointed several locations in the San Jacinto National Forest in southeast Texas. The sheriff would not say if officers would begin digging for more bodies in the map area.

"I'm not trying to be evasive," he said. "But we just don't know yet whether we have good evidence or bad evidence."

Hoyt, in Houston to confer with Texas Rangers on the case, said the map, shovels, a sheath of plastic body bags, three pairs of gloves —one tinted with lime —and a partially used sack of quicklime were found at the cabin near Lake Sam Rayburn owned by the father of Dean Allen Corll, 33.

Most of the bodies found at three locations in Texas were wrapped in plastic bags and sprinkled with lime.

"The map centers on the New Waverly-Huntsville area and we're going to be checking it out," Hoyt said.

Houston Police Chief Herman Short disclosed Monday that a "torture board" —the item allegedly used by Corll to strap down his victims to torture and kill them —was found in the cabin.

All the victims were teen-aged boys allegedly procured by Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Owen Brooks, 18, for Corll. Henley has admitted taking part in the torture, sexual abuse, murder and burial of some of the victims. Brooks said he helped Corll and Henley bury some victims but said he was not involved in the actual killings.

Sheriff's deputies recovered four bodies Monday on the beach east of Galveston, raising the number of victims to 27.

Houston District Attorney Carol S. Vance went before a grand jury today to seek murder indictments against Henley.

Officers indicated after the digging Monday that the four bodies recovered on the beach would be the last found there.

AGONIZING REFLECTION

Joseph P. Kennedy III, left, son of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, grimaces as he watches his brother, David, 18, being placed in ambulance after the jeep which Joseph was driving overturned Monday at Nantucket, Mass. David was hospitalized with a back injury and two young women passengers were seriously injured. Seven persons were in jeep. Police said Kennedy would be cited for careless driving.

3 CIM inmates beat up, hospitalize 2 deputies in courthouse assault

SAN BERNARDINO — Three California Institution for Men inmates on trial for murder in West Valley Superior Court beat up two sheriff's duputies in a corridor of the main jail this morning, sending both to the hospital, officials reported.

Sheriff's Capt. J. C. Ringhoffer said the three inmates, Frank Phillip Mendoza, 28, Raymond L. Contreras, 35, and Juan Figeroa Colon, 29, attacked the deputies in a corridor on the second floor of the jail leading to the marshalling area.

Ringhoffer said the two deputies, James McPheron and Daniel Clark, assigned to the main jail, were hospitalized after the attack that occurred about 7:20 a.m.

McPheron suffered a broken hand in the attack, while Clark suffered a face laceration that required 15 stitiches.

Ringhoffer said the two deputies were escorting the inmates to the marshalling yard to wait for transportation to the West Valley court, where they are standing trial for murder and assault with a deadly weapon. The inmates suddenly jumped on the officers and began hitting and kicking them, Ringhoffer said.

Mendoza, Contreras and Colon are accused of stabbing inmate Rudolph Cadena to death and seriously wounding inmate Gilbert Sandoval in an altercation Dec. 17, 1972 at the California Institution for Men's Southern Reception-Guidance Center. At the time of this morning's alleged attack on the deputies they were in their 20th day of trial.

Ringhoffer said that "it appeared as though the inmates were attempting to get Deputy McPheron's keys during the attack." When a third deputy sheriff at the jail, Michael Hall, came to the deputies' assistance, Ringhoffer said, "the three inmates stood up and just stopped."

Ringhoffer said that the inmates were not injured during the altercation.

"We intend to bring criminal charges against the inmates," said Ringhoffer, "But what do you do with them? They are like animals. They have nothing to lose—without the death penalty."

Ringhoffer said that since the trial began, the three inmates have been classed as "high security risks." He said now the inmates will probably be placed in "deadlock" and reclassified as "ultra-high security risks." He said that deadlock means that the inmates will not be permitted to leave their cells, unless absolutely necessary.

Detectives from the sheriff's office are questioning the inmates this morning about the attack that may delay the trial proceedings.

Monday in court, CIM physician James B. Anderson took the witness stand for the prosecution, saying that when he arrived at the prison hospital Dec. 17 about 2:07 p.m. he saw Cadena and Sandoval in the emergency room. He said that Cadena was pronounced dead and he attended the wounded Sandoval. He said that Sandoval had suffered a number of stab wounds to the chest, a scalp laceration, and a lacerated lip. He said he suspected that Sandoval had suffered brain damage and that at least one of his lungs had collapsed.

Robert Cranston, San Bernardino County Sheriff's Office criminalist, testified that the parts of two wooden chairs earlier introduced into evidence could have been used to make a prison-made "shank or knife." He said that wire braces in the chairs were about the same size as the blades of two shanks seized by guards following the stabbing Dec. 17. Two prison-made shanks have been introduced as evidence in the trial.

Chemical plant blast burns 5, 5-10 missing

LODI, N.J. (UPI) — An explosion rocked a chemical plant today critically burning five men and triggering a general-alarm that sent smoke billowing 1,500 feet.

A police dispatcher said "there are still a number of people trapped inside the plant" and the number of injured is expected to climb.

The dispatcher said between five and 10 persons were unaccounted for following the explosion and fire.

He said an estimated 50 persons were on the grounds of the Washine Chemical Corp. at the time of the blast.

Seven employes were taken to Hackensack Hospital. Five were reported in critical condition with burns and two others were reported in fair condition.

Police said the explosion happened as the shifts were changing and the first alarm was sounded at 7:47 a.m.

Fire and ambulance units from Lodi and other adjoining communities were called to the scene.

Firefighters hosed down railroad chemical cars in the area and sprayed nearby buildings.

Although the fire continued to burn, police said it appeared the blaze was contained.

An explosion at the plant in 1971 caused only minor damage.

Roof collapse injures 4 in Industry

INDUSTRY — Four construction workers were seriously injured here Monday when part of the roof they were building collapsed, and they fell an estimated 25 to 30 feet to a concrete floor.

Listed in fair condition at Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina are two Santa Ana men — Samuel Fernandez, 22; Alacio Martinez, 29; while a third Santa Ana man, Gregorio Espinoza, 31, was reported in stable condition in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The fourth victim, Gene Jacobs, 41, of West Covina, is in good condition at Inter-Community Hospital, Covina.

Both Fernandez and Espinoza suffered fractures to their right hips and wrists, while Martinez had a broken left arm, elbow and wrist, along with possible "intra-abdominal injuries."

Jacobs, the crew foreman, suffered fractures to his left ankle, foot and heel.

The accident occurred at 11:45 a.m. in the 800 block of S. Baldwin Park Boulevard. The men were part of a crew constructing a sub-roof made of plywood sheeting for a building owned by the Nichols Lumber Co. of Baldwin Park.

No reasons were given for the collapse, and the matter is under investigation by the Baldwin Park police.

Witnesses told police the collapse was sudden, and that they felt no movement before it happened.

The damaged area covered about 1,000 square feet.

There were no persons in the interior of the building when the roof fell. The building has been under construction since July 1, police said.

Rustlers are after new game: poultry

REDDING (UPI) — The current meat shortage has added a new dimension to law enforcement in Shasta County.

Sheriff's deputies, already on the lookout for cattle rustlers, now have a new problem— poultry rustlers.

The birds were valued at $2,000, he said.

Cal Poly prof's removal upheld

POMONA — A three-man grievance committee has reaffirmed the removal of Dr. Glen D. Phillips as chairman of the Cal Poly communication arts department, but has unanimously called for a complete investigation of the situation within the department that led to Phillips' ouster last June.

The committee, convened last month at Phillips' request through the university's grievance procedures, expressed deep concern over his charges of obstruction from the administration and departmental faculty in his more than three-year attempt to improve the quality of the department's teachers and courses.

"We are convinced," the committee wrote in its July 30 recommendation to President Robert C. Kramer, "these allegations merit a complete investigation."

Committee members Allen C. Christiensen, associate professor of animal science; Otto S. Gasser, associate professor of physical education; and George E. Carlberge, professor of accounting, further recommended the investigating group include Hugh LaBounty, vice president of academic affairs and two senior faculty members to be chosen by lot.

The recommendations are in no way binding on Kramer, according to university officials, and as of Monday no plans for a hearing had been set, nor has Kramer commented on the matter.

Kramer did answer a previous charge by Phillips that the administration had taken three weeks to reply to his original grievance petition.

Kramer said the petition had been processed within three working days as set by system policy, but that Phillips' failure to appear for a meeting to select the committee on July 5 had resulted in the delay.

The committee selection meeting could not be rescheduled until July 18, three weeks later, Kramer said.

Commenting on Phillips' absence from the first meeting because of car trouble, Kramer said, "He could have taken a taxi if it was so important to him."

Phillips, a press aide to former President Lyndon B. Johnson and professor of public affairs and broadcasting at the University of Texas before becoming department chairman in 1969, had hoped to regain his position and have the department investigated "in the open for the good of the educational system."

Phillips claims that his efforts to "shape up the department" had been thwarted for at least the past two years by both departmental faculty and the university administration.

Although a majority of the 160 communication arts students supported his efforts, tenured faculty members objected to his methods and policies and voted in early June for his removal.

Kramer upheld the faculty vote in line with the state colleges and university trustees policy, which provides that departmental chairmen serve at the pleasure of the university president and a majority of the senior department faculty.

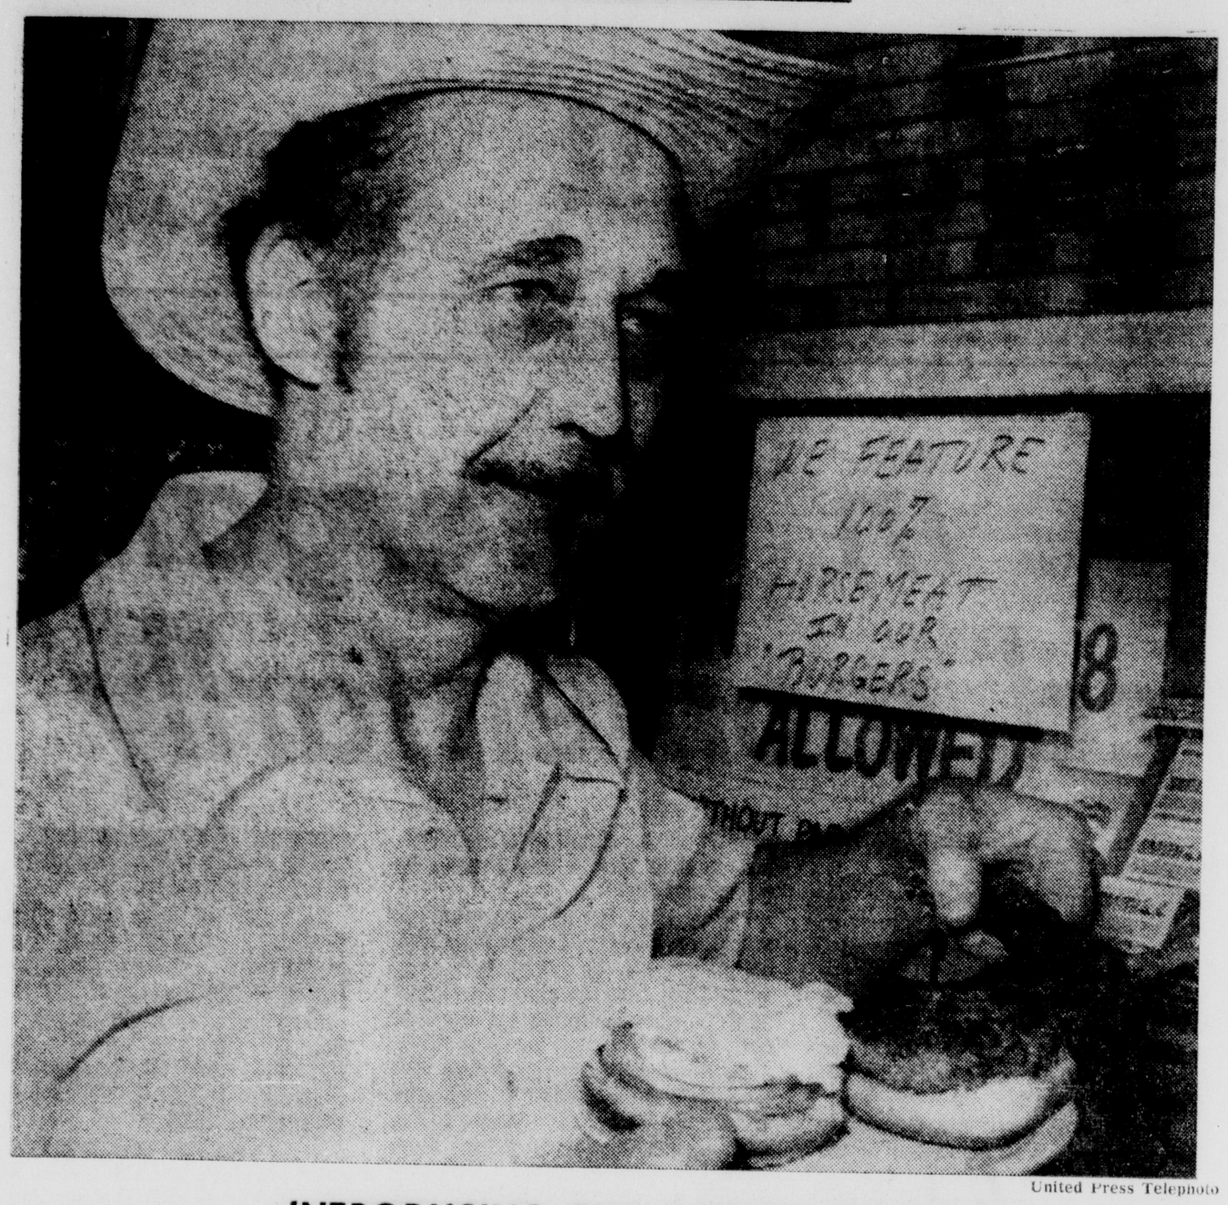

Since his return to a full-time teaching position June 16, Phillips has con-

Soviets report U. S. step up bombing

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet news papers said today the United States has intensified its bombing of Cambodia as the congressional cutoff date for the attacks approaches.

The Soviet press has had little to say on the subject of the Cambodian war in recent weeks, and has tended to avoid comment. Today, most newspapers carried a brief report by the Tass news agency on the bombing.

INTRODUCING THE HORSEBURGER

"I tried one, and you can't tell the difference between a winner and a loser," says Charles Rae, a Holyoke, Mass., cafe owner. He's pushing "horseburgers these days because of the high price of beef and its poor quality. Rae offers customers their money back if they don't like his horseburgers. And so far no one has taken him up on his offer. They're going like hotcakes, he says.

'Dirty tricks' probe begun

Prosecutors accuse Nixon over evidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate prosecution team stepped up its pace Monday, accusing President Nixon of illegally withholding vital criminal evidence on the bugging scandal and launching a second grand jury inquiry into related "dirty tricks."

The twin actions, both in U.S. District Court here, came as Nixon himself was deep in preparations for a public response to the flood of Watergate revelations at Senate hearings, now in recess until mid-September.

Special prosecutor Archibald Cox, in a sternly worded legal brief filed with the court, argued that Nixon had no legal or constitutional right to withhold from the Watergate grand jury tape recordings of nine meetings with key aides that could prove or disprove charges of "gross misconduct" and criminal wrongdoing in the White House.

"The President is not above the law," Cox said in his 67-page brief. "Unlike a monarch, the President is not the sovereign."

Nixon refused last Tuesday to honor a Cox subpoena for the tape recordings —the first subpoena served on a President in 166 years —contending he had the absolute right to withhold confidential communications "in the public interest."

To the contrary, Cox said, the President has "no absolute right to withhold evidence merely on his own say-so," particularly in the Watergate case where the fate of his closest aides and also Nixon's own "political power and future place in history" are at stake.

"The veil of confidentiality ... cannot be used as a cloak when there is substantial reason to believe that serious criminal wrongdoing may have occurred," Cox said.

Oral arguments on Cox's suit to obtain the nine tapes for the Watergate grand jury are scheduled Aug. 23 before Chief U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica. The case is certain to be decided finally by the Supreme Court.

It was expected that this special grand jury would focus initially on the alleged offer by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) in 1971 to help underwrite the 1972 GOP national convention to the tune of $400,000 in exchange for favorable settlement of three major federal antitrust actions then pending against the conglomerate.

ITT and the Nixon administration have denied the charges. But White House memos submitted at the Senate's Watergate hearings indicated that high administration officials were involved in the controversial settlement —contrary to sworn testimony before another Senate committee last year.

The new grand jury was expected to look into possible perjury in connection with the ITT case, as well as possible perjury before the Senate Watergate committee.

Other areas of inquiry were reported to include possible extortion, illegal corporate donations and other unlawful activities in connection with Nixon's 1972 campaign; alleged political espionage and sabotage last year to harass opponents; and activities of the White House squad of secret agents known as "the plumbers."

The original Watergate grand jury —which indicted the seven men convicted last January for conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping at Democratic party headquarters —will continue to investigate that case and its subsequent cover-up.

Gen. Bradley treated for blood clot on lung

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, 80, the nation's only living five-star general, was being administered anticoagulants today at the UCLA Medical Center to reduce a blood clot on the lung.

It was believed the embolism was caused by a football injury sustained when Bradley attended West Point. He graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1915.

A hospital spokesman said Bradley had a quiet night and there apparently was no change in his condition.

The Army Chief of Information office said the favorite general of U.S. ground troops in World War II was in "fairly good condition."

Bradley, 80, who won his greatest fame as commander of American forces in the invasion of Normandy in World War II, retired from active military service in 1953 but kept busy with speaking engagements and writing.

The general was admitted to the Center Sunday evening. A medical source said only that he had a "pulmonary embolism."

A hospital spokesman said Monday noon that Bradley's condition was "stable and he is resting comfortably.'

Bradley, in World War II, commanded the largest body of U. S. soldiers ever to serve under one field leader and achieved the country's highest military ranks.

In addition to becoming a five star General of the Army— along with former President Dwight Eisenhower and Gens. Douuglas MacArthur, Henry Arnold and George Marshall— he was chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff after the war.

Bradley was born in Clark, Missouri, on Feb. 12, 1893, and graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in 1915.

He served in World War I, rising to the rank of major, and was stationed in Hawaii and on the faculites of West Point and the Fort Bennning, Ga., Infantry School between the two World Wars.

He was appointed a brigadier general in 1941 and became commanding general of the infantry officer candidate program, under which more than 45,000 combat officers were commissioned during World War II.

Bradley later was put in command of the 82nd Infantry Division which later became the famous 82nd Airborne.

He later commanded American troops in North Africa, Sicily and France and the U. S. 1st Army in the Normandy invasion on D-Day.

By the end of the European campaign he was commanding four American armies totaling more than one million troops— the largest body of American combat soldiers ever to serve under one field commander.

U.S. bombing missions in Cambodia halt tonight

HONOLULU (UPI) — The men who have conducted the U.S. bombing of Indochina for a decade will issue their final orders today when attacks against Cambodia end by law.

The last bomb will fall on orders that come from the operations center of the Pacific Command, the nerve center for the U.S. air campaign conducted an ocean away.

When that bomb has fallen, the command will issue the same announcement that it has made on each of the previous 159 days: "American planes, including B52s, conducted operations over Cambodia at the request of the Cambodian government Tuesday, Southeast Asia time."

The end of the bombing of Indochina come at midnight today Washington time.

"We will conduct our usual business even after the bombing stops," said a spokesman for Admiral Noel Gayler, the commander in chief of America's Pacific forces, who is in charge of Indochina operations.

The nerve center from where orders flow to the fleet of B52 bombers, each capable of carrying 30 tons of explosives, and hundreds of smaller fighter-bombers in Southeast Asia, is located at Camp Smith.

The Marine base sits high atop a hill overlooking Pearl Harbor. Men from all branches of the service are stationed there, working in air conditioned offices.

Most of them drive to work in the morning as if to the office or factory, and go home after an eight-hour day to their families.

Admiral Gayler, a fighter pilot hero in World War II, conducts the command's business from a top floor office in the three-story headquarters building.

Gayler said that after midnight Tuesday, no American combat planes will be flown over Cambodia. But, as in the case of Vietnam where the bombing halted with the signing of the peace treaty in January, unarmed reconnaissance planes will continue to make flights over the country.

Most of the warplanes will remain at bases in Thailand and on Guam for a while at least to see what the future holds, he said.

"What we leave in Southeast Asia is largely dependent upon the actions of the North Vietnamese," Gayler said, "and their posture and the degree to which they follow the Paris agreements.

"That's a judgment that will have to be made on the situation as it evolves. Certainly we won't move them out instantly after the deadline."

tinued his efforts to rectify the deficiencies he sees within the department.

He has enlisted the aid of Sigma Delta Chi (SDX), the professional journalism society. Henry Rieger, western regional director of SDX and an executive with the National Broadcasting Co., commented in a letter to Kramer and Dr. Glenn Dumke, chancellor of the state colleges and universities, that Phillips' dismissal was "a disgrace and a shame on Cal Poly."

He noted, after an investigation into the matter, that the department's courses in journalism were "totally inadequate and outdated in practically every regard."

In a recent interview, Phillips said, "I have no interest in getting into a hassle with President Kramer. I respect his position, but there is enough evidence and documentation to convince anyone there are grave problems here that are being ignored."

Some of the problems he cited were numerous examples of faculty members failing to meet deadlines for reports on various administrative and curriculum committees, bickering among instructors in the various options within the department that thwarted his efforts to provide an integrated mass media approach in training future graduates, lack of administrative support for his efforts to bring disciplinary action against one instructor because of chronic absenteeism, complaints from students who said they spent several class periods in discussions on the relative merits of rubber cement versus glue, or blunt-nosed scissors versus sharp-nosed in the cutting of teletype copy.

"I thought that one was just a put-on," Phillips said, "but investigation proved it to be true."

The situation in the department, he said, seriously affects recruiting of new students and new faculty, not to mention the disservice being done to current students and taxpayers.

The department has become the "laughing stock of Southern California" in academic and professional circles, he said, and no one seems to care.

200 women died in mass murders of 80 years ago

NEW YORK (UPI) — Herman Webster Mudgett, a one time medical student, may have been the most infamous mass murderer of all.

Eighty years ago he was accused of killing more than 200 women and burying their bodies in his basement.

According to the recently published book "Bloodletters and Badmen," by Jay Robert Nash, Mudgett was born in Germantown, N.H., and studied medicine at Ann Arbor, Mich.

He was expelled for taking out insurance policies under various names and then stealing, disfiguring and burying cadavers from the university dissecting room and collecting insurance on them.

Mudgett moved to Chicago and changed his name to Harry Howard Holmes, according to Nash's book, where he became a confidence man and swindler, then bought a drugstore.

He later purchased a vacant lot across the street and erected a bizarre three-story building of turrets and towers, hidden rooms, concealed stairways, trap doors, false walls and ceilings.

Mudgett, according to the book, lured to the house scores of women, mostly young girls he had hired as "secretary-typists," got them to sign over their assets and insurance policies to him and then killed them with lethal gas.

In 1894, after the house had been burned and boarded up, Chicago police entered the building and found the remains of over 200 corpses in the basement, Nash said.

Mudgett confessed to 27 murders in interviews with newsmen but later recanted and said he was responsible for only two deaths. He was executed on May 7, 1896, for the murder of a petty thief named Ben Pitezel who was Mudgett's accomplice in a confidence game.

Federal Reserve Board hikes discount rate to banks seventh time this year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board Monday increased its discount rate for the seventh time this year to an all-time high 7.5 per cent. The move came in the wake of record high prime rate hikes by commercial banks.

The discount rate jumped from 7 to 7.5 per cent effective Tuesday for ten of its 12 banks — New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco. Boston and Atlanta were expected to follow suit quickly.

The board's original announcement did not include San Francisco, which was added to the list within an hour later.

The discount rate was boosted from 4.5 per cent to 5 per cent last Jan. 15, to 5.5 per cent Feb. 23, to 5.75 per cent April 23, to 6 per cent, May 11, to 6.5 per cent June 11 and to 7 per cent June 29.

The discount rate is the interest commercial banks are charged when they borrow from federal reserve banks. The prime rate is what commercial banks charge their best customers, usually the corporate giants, while the consumer rates are usually higher than the prime rate.

The previous high level for the discount rate was 7 per cent which had gone into effect at the end of June and also occurred in 1920 and 1921.

The discount rate was 5.5 per cent when President Nixon took office in 1969, but it fell to 4.5 per cent by the end of 1971 before starting upward again.

Wreckage of WWII bomber found in Big Sur ravine

BIG SUR, Calif. (UPI) — The wreckage of a World War II B25 bomber, the type of plane that first bombed Tokyo in Jimmy Doolittle's famed "30 Second" raid, was found in thick brush in a ravine.

The plane, first spotted by a pair of hikers two weeks ago, was reached Monday by deputies on foot after an Army helicopter ferried them to a knoll near the crash site.

A spokesman at Hamilton Air Force Base said it appeared the wreckage had not been identified before.

"Normally, wrecked aircraft are all marked but this one doesn't appear to be," said Maj. James Justin of the Western Rescue Center at Hamilton.

Bones were found in the wreckage and the remains were taken to the Monterey County Coroner's office.

"We found clips of ammunition and some equipment still in excellent shape and fairly well preserved," said Deputy Sgt. John Crisan.

Parts of the aircraft were scattered over a one mile area of the wilderness.

Griffiths elected chairman of L.V. parks-recreation

LA VERNE — George D. Griffiths of 1050 Canyon View Drive was elected chairman of the La Verne Parks and Recreation Commission Monday night.

Griffiths, who was vice president of the commission, succeeds Frank Vidaure who served as president during the past year. Richard Owen was named new vice president.

Griffiths is an administrator with General Telephone Co.

Attending the meeting for the first time was the student representative, Carl Davis, a senior from Bonita High School, who was named to the commission by the City Council last month.

Man wounded in crime spree

Son of sheriff's deputy killed by trio

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three young men were arrested today after a "vicious, senseless crime spree" that left the 13-year-old son of a sheriff's sergeant dead and a man critically wounded.

Police said the suspects— "one remorseful, who was near hysteria; one sullen who said very little, and one foul-mouthed who was argumentative"—also were charged with two robberies, one which netted only $6.

The crime spree began in the Highland Park area about 10 p.m. Monday night as Patrick Lee Shaughnessy, 13, the son of a sheriff's sergeant assigned to the Montrose substation, was walking along a street with a friend.

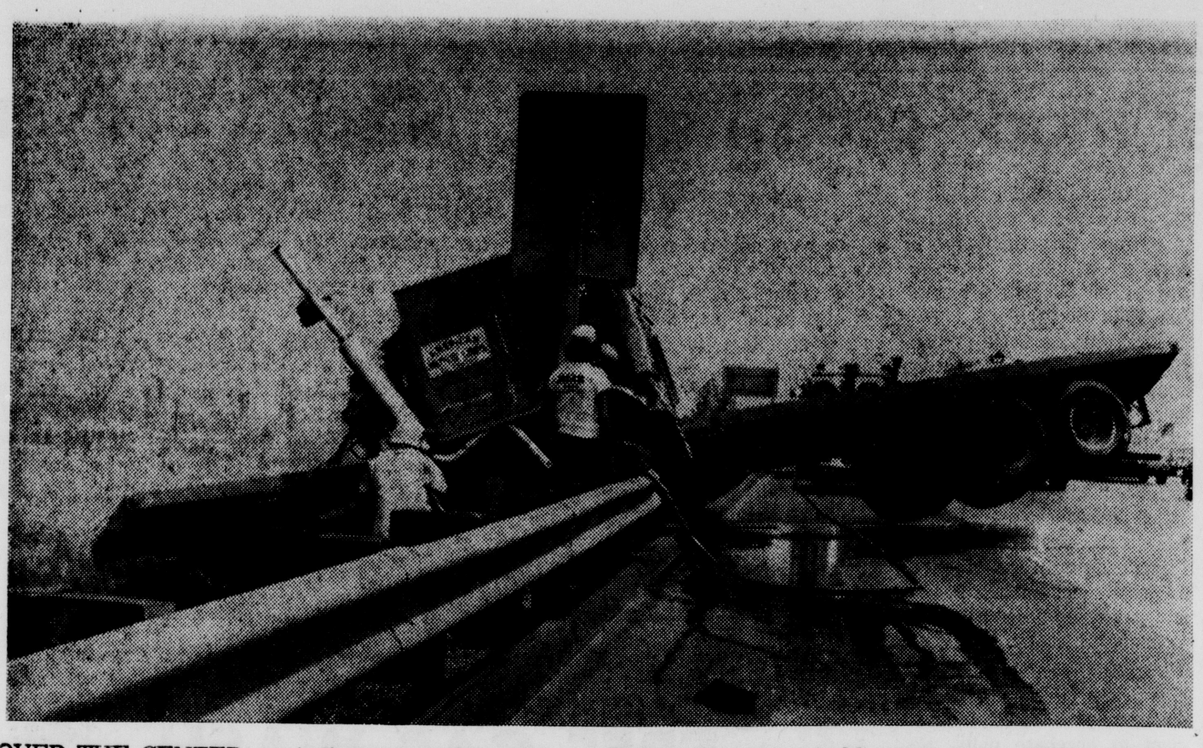

Three youths jumped out of a car, chased the two youths, then pounced on Shaughnessy, hitting him on the head. The boy was dead on arrival at Glendale Adventist Hospital. The other boy managed to escape.

Police said the crime spree turned to a service station a half hour later when Larry Page, 20, a body and fender worker, was forced into the suspects' car.

Page was robbed of $6 and later released unharmed in the Eagle Rock area.

Police said the three youths, one 16 years old and two 17, then robbed another service station, beating the attendant, Edward J. Dezso, 23, and taking $100. Dezso, found lying in a pool of blood, was reported in critical condition at Glendale Memorial Hospital.

Officers said the body and fender man provided police with a description of the suspects' car and they were arrested without incident after driving into a darkened alley.

OVER THE CENTER — A fireman washes down gasoline spilled from this truck after it hit the center divider on the San Bernardino Freeway west of Benson Avenue. A blowout on a station wagon started chain reaction which resulted in three separate accidents within a three minute span of time.

Blowout triggers 3 accidents on freeway

MONTCLAIR — A tire blowout on a station wagon Monday triggered three accidents on the San Bernardino Freeway near Benson Avnue and locked several lanes of traffic for about three hours.

Besides the station wagon, the series of accidents involved two trucks, and a pickup pulling a van.

Pearl Lundstrom of 426 Tyler Way, Upland, driver of the station wagon, was admitted to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana where her condition today is fair. She suffered cuts and bruises.

Manuel Romero of El Centro, a truck driver, was treated at Doctors Hospital in Montclair and released.

The accidents occurred within a few minutes, said highway patrolmen.

Mrs. Lundstrom was driving west in an inside lane when a rear tire blew out. The driver applied her brakes and lost control, causing the vehicle to drive into the center divider fence.

It spun around and came to a stop in two of the freeway's lanes, officers added.

Meanwhile, two trucks going west came upon the accident, which had just occurred.

Fred Bickel of Galveston, Tex., applied his brakes. Romero started to pass the Bickel truck when he also saw the vehicle in the roadway. Romero turned hard to his right to avoid striking the station wagon.

This caused his rig to jackknife and strike the rear of the second truck. One truck then veered into the center divider.

The third accident resulted when Albert Lawson of El Monte slowed his sedan down for traffic congestion created by the previous accidents.

J. D. Osborne of Norco, driving a pickup and towing a van, swerved to the left to avoid colliding with Lawson's auto.

This caused the van being towed to swing around and hit the sedan, officers reported.

The wrecked vehicles in the two lanes kept these closed until about 5 p.m. until the trucks could be removed, said investigators.

Via Verde loses on condominium issue but scores point on density

SAN DIMAS — The Via Verde Homeowners Association was denied appeals to reverse conditional-use prmits in an effort to halt construction of two condominiums Monday night but it may have won the war anyway.

City Councilman D. F. Hooper explained to the members of the association atending the meeting that "the conditional use permit isn't worth the paper it is written on without the final approval of a pending zone change for the two properties." He indicated that the council may never give final adoption to the zone change.

Hooper said he and other members of the City Council have changed their minds about density and he feels that even the 10 units per acre now proposed is too high. He said he would go for five or six units per acre.

He said the completion of the general plan update this fall will bring new public hearings before the Planning Commission and the City Council regarding the properties.

The homeowners have been trying to halt construction of the two developments which would put a 63-unit condominium at Via Verde and Camino del Sur and 55 units north of the Via Verde clubhouse and southerly of West Avenida Loma Vista.

Crowe Pacific of Newport Beach is the applicant for both projects.

Councilman Loyd Salisbury said he felt the Via Verde residents "are nitpicking with this one."

Both Hooper and Vice Mayor Jim Lough commended the Via Verde homeowners for their efforts to have good planning for this portion of the community. But both indicated that at times they were weary of complaints of the residents there.

Lough said the staff and members of the City Council have put more time on this item than any other in recent years.

Asian theology prof to lecture

CLAREMONT — Dr. Yoshinobu Kumazawa, professor of theology at the Tokyo Union Theological Seminary, will deliver a public lecture Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the School of Theology's Mudd Communications Building.

Kumazawa's address, "Integrating the Text and Context in Contemporary Japanese Theology," is part of the first conference on East Asian and Amerasian theology being hosted by the school Thursday and Friday.

Bill on Regional pollution agency to Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation establishing a regional agency to fight air pollution in the six-county South Coast Air Basin has reached the Assembly floor.

The bill (AB2283) by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, was approved by the Ways and Means Committee Wednesday on a 15-2 vote.

Hot, muggy, smoggy days ahead

Hot, muggy and smoggy weather is in store for Pomona Valley residents the next few days.

Monday's brief rainfall which left .01 of an inch of rain in downtown Pomona only added to the humidity which has been higher than usual the past few days.

Forecaster Bill Hackel of the National Weather Service office in Riverside said the humidity reading has been about 20 per cent above normal both mornings and afternoons.

Puddingstone town house residents complain:

Developer made promises but failed to deliver

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — Residents of the Larwin Puddingstone town house development protested Monday night what they called unfulfilled promises of the developer.

Residents complained to the City Council that they were promised that three swimming pools would be constructed within the development and that only two are now planned. They also said a nearby canyon is a fire hazard, that trash collection bins are an eyesore and that vacant lots near their homes are creating a "dust bowl."

There are presently 32 families living in the development and 14 of these were represented at the meeting seeking help from the council.

The town house units sell for from $33,000 to $39,000. A total of 96 units will be constructed at the completion of the project but only 56 units are finished at the present time.

Ed Aleks of 659 Driftwood Lane said he had been appointed spokesman for the group. He said the group of homeowners had hired an attorney.

He told the council that the City of La Verne had refused to approve final plans for a development there at the request of the homeowners. Residents of Bradford Place in La Verne said they were also promised an additional swimming pool. The council there took a firm stand to help the residents.

"We feel you can help us if you just take a moral stand," Aleks told the council. He said Larwin Co. would be in San Dimas only until it completed its project but that the homeowners would be there to vote in the next election.

Another resident said salesmen at the development used the third pool as an inducement to purchase units. He said he felt this bordered on fraud. He said the sales managers and salesmen are still with the company.

Deputy City Atty. Richard Laskin told the council that the situation was a private dispute between the owners and developers.

Vice Mayor James Lough, who was presiding in the absence of Mayor Thomas Nuss, said the city has no control over the actions of the salesmen but he promised that the city would communicate with the developer.

"We have no legal right in this matter," he said.

City Councilman D. F. Hooper also stated that the city should complain to Larwin Co. "We should assist the residents anyway we can," he said. Hooper told the residents he was sorry that they had had this problem. He said he was unhappy that the developer wasn't living up to his promises. He said he would walk through the development to see the problems first hand.

Mark Goldberg, planning associate, said plans for the completion of the development shows only two pools. He also explained that the nearby canyon would be cleared for trails but otherwise would be kept as natural as possible.

He said this was only a temporary inconvenience that residents had to walk some distance to dump their trash and that trash bins were in public view. He said trash 30 gallon cans were to be kept in the garage and set out on trash pickup days.

Frank Basile, director of public works said he would visit the development to determine if the construction crews are keeping the dust watered down.

Warehouse $1 hourly pay hike sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Teamsters Union sought a $1 an hour wage increase Monday for journeymen warehousemen on the eve of negotiations covering 8,000 workers in the wholesale grocery industry in Southern California.

Talks begin Tuesday with the Food Employers Council, the bargaining unit for the major area supermarket chains.

Robert K. Fox, president of the council and chief negotiator, said the union submitted "the usual set of absurd demands for a one-year contract asking a $1 an hour wage increase, plus an escalator clause and fringe benefit increase in excess of $4 an hour."

Fox said the proposals amounted to a 70 per cent increase next year.

A Teamster spokesman confirmed that warehousemen, the largest bloc of employes represented, would get a $1 an hour increase in their current $5.28 an hour wage under the union's proposal.

He said the union had not averaged the monetary equivalent of fringe benefit increases but added that the $4 figure seemed "out of line." The union is seeking six new paid holidays, a 35-hour week and a psychiatric care program.

The employers council said that under the present contract, which expires Sept. 2, Teamster warehousemen, drivers and office workers average $5.34 an hour plus another $1.75 in fringes.

But winning is another matter

Writer finds he can compete on TV shows

By JACK SAUNDERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Have you ever wondered about those TV game shows? What it's like to be a contestant? Can anyone get on—and win?

This reporter, in a private capacity, was curious about just these questions, and so after watching a National Broadcasting Corporation game show called Three On A Match —seen 1:30-2:00 in the afternoon—I wrote to the address flashed on the screen to see if I, too, could become a contestant.

I received a postcard telling me to go to a midtown New York hotel—the New York Sheraton—any Thursday. On July 5 I went to take their test, which consisted of 32 multiple - choice questions, three choices per question, and which were much more difficult to answer than those asked on the show.

29 right

A score of 90 per cent or better was needed to pass—29 or better of the 32 questions right—and I was told by the contestant coordinator that fewer than 10 per cent passed. But, although I guessed on three or four of the questions, I did succeed in getting a passing score.

Many people around me were told, "You just missed, I'm sorry," or "I'm sorry, you didn't pass," so I was very happy to have scored so well.

Then the contestant coordinator—Don McCoy—asked me a few personal questions, and I figured that since I was engaged I would have a good chance to get on. McCoy asked me, "Do you think you would make a good contestant," and I answered, "I'm not always an emotional person, but I get very happy when something goes right for me—I was very happy when I got engaged."

20-minute interview

After I left the interview—which, including the test itself, took all of 20 minutes—I wasn't too sure I'd ever get on, and, if I did, how far in the future it would be. After all, I reasoned, McCoy had told me that passing the test was no guarantee of becoming a contestant, that they didn't use everyone who passed.

I also assumed that, living in New York City, anyone from out of town would be used before me.

So I was in shock when a week and a day later—hardly an "unlucky" Friday the 13th of July—McCoy called me at home to ask if I was available for taping the following Tuesday.

I showed up very nervous but thinking to myself that the worst I could do was win a consolation prize—$50 worth of candy bars or some similar item.

Practical game

The other contestants, McCoy, the contestant coordinator and I practiced the game. Everyone seemed to know the answers to the questions but none of us seemed to be very lucky at making matches, the whole object of the game, the way prizes could be won.

And, as nervous and jittery as we contestants were, McCoy seemed even more nervous .

"Be outgoing—more than yourself," he pleaded. "My job is at stake. Be emotional when you're doing well, and look unhappy when you're not—give a dirty look at the other contestants if they're doing well and you're not. And go bananas if you win."

Although three shows were taped that Tuesday, there were quite a few contestants to go on ahead of me, so I wasn't sure if I would get on that day, but I waited around, ate lunch— which I had to pay for—in the NBC Commissary, and after lunch was told, "Okay, Jack, you're on. Be emotional."

It was a very surrealistic feeling, seeing the audience from the vantage point of the panel. I looked across at host Bill Cullen, around at my two fellow panelmates and found it difficult to believe that I would be seen by millions of people in a few weeks. Yes, my words are read by millions on my job, but it's not the same feeling.

Became at ease

At first I was more concerned with not making a fool of myself than with winning, but as the show went on I became more at ease and got absorbed in the game.

But time ran out before any conclusion was reached, and I had to come back the next day to find out my fate.

I got very little sleep that night. Would I win? I had, after all, gotten one-third of the way towards that end on Tuesday, the only one on the panel to get that far.

All through the show the next day McCoy was running up to the stage during commercial breaks, telling us to react more, to look happier or sadder, to "be more than yourself." All of us on the panel had trouble being nervous with him around—we were too busy laughing or thinking about him. But we were all very serious, despite one girl's protestation that "I just want to get this over with; I don't even care if I win."

Almost at the end of the show, I completed my goal, making my third match. When that last square was turned over, revealing me as the winner, I went "bananas." I threw out my hands, covered my face and acted very happy.

But although I was acting somewhat, I WAS happy to have won—a car, a two-week vacation in Mexico, a bedroom set of furniture and a $950 gift certificate from Spiegel catalog.

I lost my championship almost immediately afterwards, without winning anything else, but certainly had no reason to complain. I had won $5,000 of prizes for about 7 ½ hours of my time.

Yes, Virginia, anyone CAN get on a game show, if they're lucky, and if they're even luckier, they CAN win.

President Lincoln was shot April 14, 1965, and died the next day.

Claremont panel will mull signs, photo site

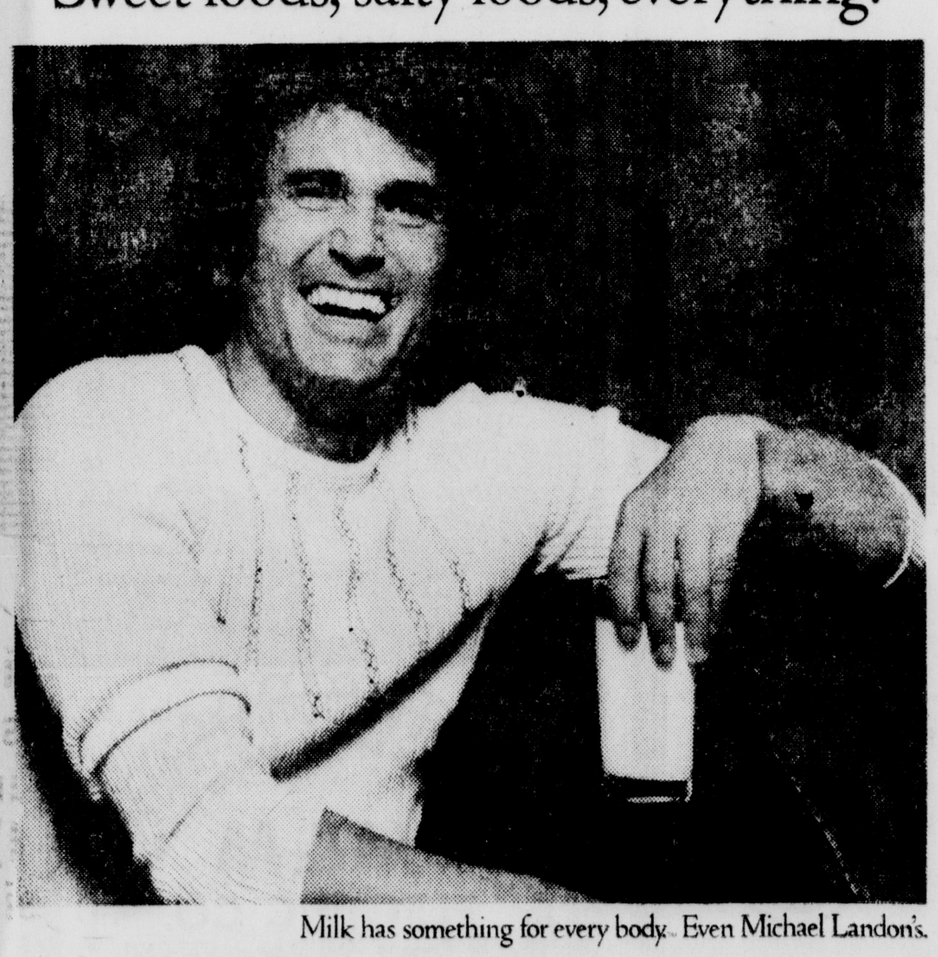

CLAREMONT — An architectural and site plan reveiw for a driveup photography business, a sign review for American Housing Guild's Springhill Apartments, and a sign review for Van de Kamp's are the only items on the agenda for the Architectural Commission meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Council chamber.

Applicant William J. Gigante and the city staff have not agreed on colors or the type of roof for a drive-up business at 913 W. Foothill Blvd., but a compromise may be worked out.

The commission had continued the Springhill Apartments sign matter from its last meeting to give the applicant an opportunity to submit a more adequate rendering of the sign he wants to install in front of the apartment complex at 410 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

Van de Kamp's is asking approval of an interior lighted identification sign for its bakery inside the new Stater Bros. market at 1055 W. Foothill Blvd.

Since the city's sign ordinance permits only one identification sign for each building frontage, the commission must make a finding that there are exceptional circumstances that warrant the additional sign.

Wedding vows recited in Nuptial Mass

Miss Kathleen Ann O'Rourke and Philip Arthur Barrett recited their wedding vows during a Nuptial Mass read by the Rev. Arthur Clerkin in St. Joseph Catholic Church.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. O'Rourke of Pomona was escorted to the altar by her father.

She wore a floor-length gown of candlelight satin which was trimmed in chantily lace. The empire waist was accented with a large satin bow tied in the back. A Juliet cap held the bride's elbow-length veil.

Miss Sharon O'Rourke was maid of honor for her sister. The groom's sister, Miss Jo Ann Barrett, was bridesmaid. Another sister of the groom, Lisa Barrett, was flower girl.

The best man was Thomas Barrett, brother of the groom. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Barrett of Pomona. Robert James, a cousin of the groom, was usher.

A reception at the Ganesha Park Community Center honored the newlyweds before they departed for a honeymoon in northern California and Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett will make their home in Rowland Heights.

TODAY'S Women

Afternoon ceremony unites local couple

Miss Patricia Lynnel Myers and Douglas Allen Lashbrook were united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Pomona.

The Rev. Keith Korstjens performed the afternoon rites.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade A. Myers of Claremont was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of silk organza fashioned with a fitted bodice and long full sleeves of cotton venise lace.

The gathered waistline, yoke and cuffs were trimmed in blue satin ribbon. The bride's floor-length mantilla was edged in lace and held with a band of lace and blue ribbon.

White daisies and baby's breath were carried in the bride's bouquet.

Miss Nancy Lio was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kris Wade and Miss Denise Jackson. Miss Laura Myers, sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid.

Scott Lashbrook, brother of the groom, was best man. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan J. Lashbrook of Claremont. Ushers were Breen Dooley, Brad Myers, brother of the bride, and Bob Lashbrook, brother of the groom.

A reception on the church patio followed the ceremony. Special guests included the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. W. W. Shelton of Moscow, Idaho, and Mrs. Margaret E. Myers of Albuquerque, N.M.

Mr. and Mrs. Lashbrook will make their home in Upland after a honeymoon at Sausalito.

Ask. Dr. Brothers

A personal matter

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My boyfriend and I have been going together for several months and we are serious about each other — serous enough to be contemplating marriage as soon as he finishes school. Ever since we first met he's wanted me to sleep with him as he feels this is the only way a couple can really get to know each other. Actually, he is opposed to marriage philosophically, even though he'd marry me. He feels marriage is dying out and that I'm cowardly not to live with him now and forget about formalizing the relationship.

I don't feel I can do this because of my parents' attitude and also I wouldn't want to raise children knowing that we were not married legally. I couldn't lie to my parents because it would make me feel too guilty and also I just know it wouldn't work.

I'm getting so uptight about all this because even my girl friends are beginning to make fun of me and I'm getting pressure from all sides. I feel like a puritanical freak but I'll feel even worse if I lose this man because of my attitudes about sex before marriage. I'm also afraid that even if I agreed and started to live with him before our marriage I'd feel so anxious that it would all be lousy anyway.—T.C.

Dear T. C.: If you are old enough to be thinking about marriage you're old enough to stand up to others and do what you feel is right.

Sex before marriage is a personal matter and from your letter it is clear that it would be wrong for you. As you have pointed out, the relationship could not possiby have the relaxation and freedom necessary for a truly rewarding union.

If you love this young man and want him for a husband, you are more likely to marry him if you continue to wait for the wedding march than if you live with him and have a "trial marriage."

Three psychologists recently studied 18 couples who lived together out of wedlock. At the same time, they studied 31 pairs going steady but not sharing the same bed. They observed that among the couples who were living together most of the women yearned for marriage while all but three of the men regarded their nonmarital state as a satisfactory alternative.

While trust, happiness and involvement were high among both groups of couples, those not living together were much more committed to marriage. The men who were living with their girlfriends showed a much lower degree of respect and need for their partners than males pursuing a conventional courtship.

Researchers Judith Lyness, Milton Lipetz, and Keith Davis feel that trust, mutual need, respect, involvement and happiness in the relationship, sexual satisfaction, willingness to share personal feelings, happiness in childhood and commitment to marriage are among the factors needed for a close, long-term relationship. A study of both sets of couples revealed that those living together did not share feelings that one would expect as the basis of a good heterosexual relationship.

Your parents' attitudes are also important in determining your chances for having a happy and successful marriage. It helps a great deal if you have their support. Unions that lack this start off at a distinct disadvantage.

If this young man loves you he will respect your feelings about this matter just as he will respect them on other matters. If he does not respect your feelings, then this may be a clue to problems that might develop later. If he leaves you merely because you won't sleep with him now, the chances are he'd be likely to leave you after marriage.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

It is commonly stated that ostriches hide their heads in the sand upon sensing danger. The World Almanac notes that this belief is false, as the ostrich either runs or fights when it is endangered. Ostriches can run at speeds up to 37 miles per hour and have been known to kill men and even horses with blows from their sharp toes.

For Wednesday, August 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things function in your favor today. However, you'll have very little control over the direction events take.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Some of yesterday's momentum will help carry you through today. Continue to activiate your ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your presitge is on the iine. Be sure to follow through on promises, through there's some hidden cost involved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't have time for frivolous things or flighty people. You will be too busy attending to productive matters.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Let cohorts take the lead in situations you share. They'll protect your interests better than you can today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept.22) A decision over which you have little control will be made about you today. It's fair. You'll be pleased.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Continue concentration on work or career. There are several important hidden advantages to be brought into play.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A would-be helpful outsider will intrude in a matter you consider personal. You'll wish she wouldn't interfere.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It will be up to you to see that dissident elements in the family pull together as one today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will forego pleasurable pursuits because of responsibilities. It will later prove to be a wise choice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even though it's not visible today, there's a reward coming for efforts you are presently expending. Stick with it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Forget about shortcuts. You won't be happy unless you do things the best you know how.

7,000 gallons of gas hijacked from tanker

YANKEETOWN, Florida (UPI) —Two men armed with shotguns drained 7,000 gallons of gasoline into another truck after hijacking the driver of a commercial tanker truck Sunday.

The stolen gasoline, valued at $2,100, was gone from the Tenneco delivery truck when driver Harold Seiboldt of Orlando was finally released after being abducted for several hours and driven 75 miles south of here to Pasco County.

Siebodt said he had finished filling his tanker at a depot just before dawn when the bandits confronted him in his cab, bound him, taped his eyes shut and threw him into a car.

He reported 2,000 gallons of premium and 5,000 gallons of regular gasoline were missing.

Covina band plans concert for children

COVINA—"A Birthday party" will be the theme of the 10th annual children's concert of the Covina Concert Band to be held in the bandshell at the city park at 8 p.m. Thursday. Admission is free.

A huge birthday cake adorned with electric lights will occupy the center of the stage. Cookies and balloons will be given to young people. Children are asked to wear party hats and to bring noisemakers to the concert.

Jim McClellan, who conducts children's shows on cable television, will narrate stories, including "Jack and the Beanstalk," accompanied by the 50-piece band. Marjorie Hanson, vocalist with the band, will narrate "Tubby the Tuba," with tuba solo played by Gordon Knechtel. Tammy and Sylvia Hastings will join Miss Hanson in "Puff, the Magic Dragon."

The program will also include a parade, led by Dale Nichols; stunts by Jim Hatton in a bear costume; and dances by costumed members of the Alan Currier Dance Studio of Covina.

The Covina band children's concerts have attracted as many as 2,000 youngsters in the past.

Romance blooms at Firehouse

POMONA — Mary Howard of Claremont and Earl Grier of Chino will be married Sunday afternoon where they met, courted and became engaged—at the Firehouse Inn, 988 N. Garey Ave.

Grier is general manger and executive chef of the inn; Mrs. Howard was a cocktail waitress at Orlando's Restaurant for 11 years.

Grier, a native of Nova Scotia, has been a professional chef most of his life, working in such places as Blindstrom's and Pier 9 in Boston, Longchamps in New York City, and in country clubs in Pennsylvania and New York. He has been with the Firehouse since E. E. "Bud' Taylor took over the operation in 1971. Grier's three stepsons, James, Ed and David Lelko, are also employed there.

Mrs. Howard was born in Arkansas but has lived most of her life in Southern California. She has three sons, Roger, Randy and Richard, the latter of whom is also employed at the Firehouse.

The couple met and became acquainted at the Firehouse a year ago. They became engaged Aug. 6.

The wedding will be held in the Auxiliary Room of the inn at 2 p.m., with Superior Court Judge Paul Egly performing the service. Mrs. Howard will be given away by her son, Roger. The bride's sister, Mrs. Billie Thomas of La Puente, will be matron of honor, and Taylor will be best man.

The wedding reception will be held at the Firehouse after the ceremony. Friends of the bride and groom are invited to attend.

After a honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Claremont.

DIAHANN CARROLL will be one of the stars of te fourth annual "Show of the World" at the Forum in Inglewood at 8 p.m. sept. 22. The benefit for Permanent Charities of the Entertainment Industries will also feature Johnny Mathis, Glen Campbell, Bob Newhart and others.

Big band to play in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES The big band of Richard Maltby will present a free concert of music of the swing years in McArthur Park at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The concert is presented by the Bureau of Music of the Los Angeles Municipal Arts Department with the cooperation of Musicians Union Local 47 Trust Fund.

Maltby conducts, composes, arranges and plays many instruments. He was staff arranger-composer at CBS in Chicago; and staff arranger-composer-conductor at ABC New York, under Paul Whiteman. He has recorded hundreds of numbers for Muzak and many albums with his own band for Label X, Vik, Camden, Roulette, and Columbia records.

Malby has toured to over 350 college campuses, and has composed, arranged and conducted many radio and TV commercials for Chevrolet, Chrysler, Buick, Plymouth-Valiant, Goodrich Tires, Lucky Strike and others.

As executive assistant to Lawrence Welk, Maltby arranged and conducted seven albums for the Lawrence Welk orchestra and chorus and many production numbers for the Welk show.

He has conducted his own works with the U. S. Marine Band, U. S. Navy Band, West Point Band, All-States Bands, ABC Symphony Orchestra, and Symphony of the Air.

N. Y. ballet now playing at the Greek

LOS ANGELES — The New York City Ballet opened its summer stand at the Greek Theater Monday night. The engagement continues through Aug. 25.

Playing through Saturday are "Symphony in C," "Capriccio" and "The Concert."

"Symphony in C" is in four movements with music by Bizet. Each movement develops different themes and different melodies. There is a different dance scheme and development for each of these four movements.

"Capriccio," which is premiering on the West Coast with this engagement, is the second act "Rubies" from "Jewels." "Rubies" has been excerpted from the full-length work and has been performed as a separate ballet many times in the United States, in western Europe and in the USSR.

"The Concert," with music by Chopin is a light, humorous ballet and has been described as a "comic masterpiece."

Tickets for all performances are now on sale at the Greek Theater box office and Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies.

Swiss work to keep time with Bulova

NEW YORK (UPI) — Selling American-made watches in Switzerland is akin to carrying coals to Newcastle, but it's being done.

The Swiss have bought a few American watches for years just because they are interested in watchmaking everywhere. No American manufacturer, however, ever made a serious effort to market watches in Switzerland, home of the world's biggest horological industry, until Bulova began doing so in the past year. More recently, Microma, Inc., of Cupertino, Calif., contracted to supply quartz watch movements to a Swiss firm.

Bulova is not looked on as a foreign company by the Swiss because it has maintained factories and a research laboratory in the Alpine country for years.

Under the leadership of President Harry Henshel, grandson of founder Joseph Bulova, the New York based company has become a global operator. It makes jeweled watches abroad but manufactures battery powered Accutron and Accuquartz timepieces in the United States. These are being sold successfuily to Swiss consumers in competition with the finest output of their own factories.

Economically, Bulova is able to make the Accutron and the Accuquartz movements in the United States because, although all watchmaking is labor intensive, the advanced tuning fork and quartz watches require much less assembly labor than spring-powered jeweled timepieces.

Henshel told United Press International that devaluation of the dollar has helped him market watches to the Swiss. The general price scale in Switzerland currently is one of the highest in the world. The Accutron at $95 and up and the Accuquartz at $200 and up probably don't look as expensive to the Swiss as to Americans.

Another factor has been the success achieved by Bulova's designers in slimming down battery powered watches so they can be styled for the feminine market. When first introduced, they were of sizes that appealed mainly to men. Bulova is offering the Accuquartz in 12 styles this year, all slimmed down.

Henshel says Bulova expects to join the parade to the solidstate watch with a digital time display between now and next April.

"We got to be the world's biggest watch company by marketing through jewelers and safeguarding their interests," he said. Talk by some of his competitors that future marketing and servicing of watches may have to be switched from the jewelers to retail electronics shops annoys Henshel.

"No matter what anyone says, no one kind of watch is going to take over the market anywhere," Henshel says flatly to those enthusiasts who claim the solid state watch with a digital display soon will take over from the hour and minute hands that have served to tell the time for centuries.

He admits that demand for solid state digital display watches presently exceeds supply and he expects demand to grow—at a conservative pace. But he believes there will be a large market for conventional watches for many years.

Shortages hit builders, too

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Associated General Contractors (AGC) said today more than 30 states are experiencing shortages of steel and cement ranging from "slight" to "severe."

Bangkok hotel hit by flames

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Fire swept the second and third floors of the old Oriental Hotel today, gutting a number of rooms and offices.

There were no immediate reports of injuries, although it was feared some guests might have been trapped in their rooms.

Officials said the fire started in one or two rooms of the old part of the hotel, the city's first. It was opened in 1897.

Family film

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Lost Horizon" received the Blue Ribbon Award from the National Screen Council which was voted best picture for the whole family.

Service helps parents know their children

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A new service offered through the University Hospital at the University of Washington is designed to teach parents to get along better with their children.

Dr. Kate Kogan, professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, is director of the program known as the Parenting Clinic. The clinic is an outgrowth of research involving more than 100 mother-child pairs during a seven-year period.

"The problems we see are not abnormal, unusual or pathological," Dr. Kogan said. "We are dealing with everyday problems that many parents and children have. The parents who come to us have not been able to find a reasonable solution.

"Some mothers, for example, don't know what to expect of a child of three or four years of age. They are upset by behaviors that are really quite appropriate for children of that age. They expect them to act too much like adults."

Certain repetitive patterns of behavior develop between parents and their children, Dr. Kogan explained. Because the relationship is circular, it can be changed via intervention, which will interrupt inappropriate patterns that have developed between the pair. These patterns then can be replaced by more positive responses.

During initial visits to the clinic, the parent and child are observed at play. Video tapes are made of these periods and are analyzed to determine the repetitive patterns of interaction.

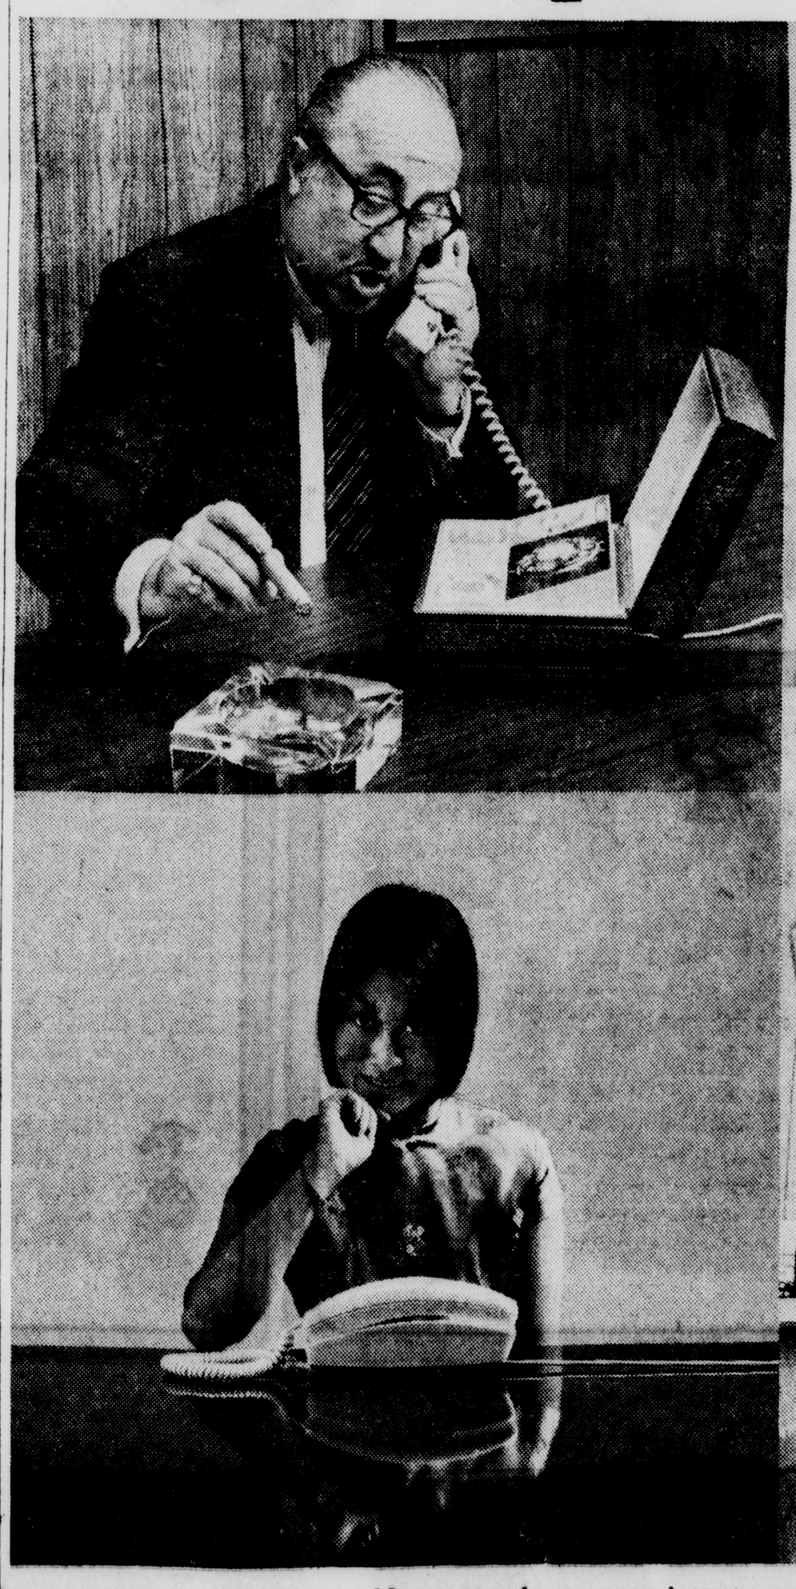

"We watch for behavior which already is present which we would like to see the mother increase or decrease," Dr. Kogan said. "Therefore, we're not imposing any new behavior on her."

Following the first two observation visits, the parent and child attend the clinic once each week. During these periods, the parent wears a small earphone. Through this "bug," the observer makes comments on the activity and the parent is helped to recognize the appropriate ways to communicate with the child.

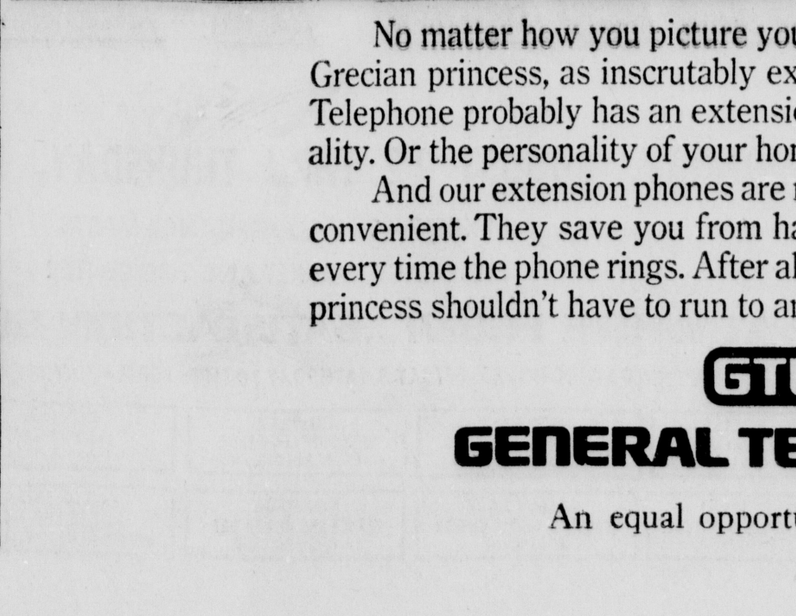

Parents learn to anticipate conflict or frustration and to deal with it more effectively. Also stressed to the parent is the need for expressing enjoyment and praising the child for accomplishments.

Abandoned homes grow at rate too fast to cope with, city told

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The number of abandoned houses here has been growing at a faster rate than the city can find ways to cope with the problem, Eugene Pester, department of community development director, told the City Council Monday night.

There were about 30 boarded up houses in 1971 when the city recognized the growing problem by entering into an agreement with the Los Angeles County Housing Authority for a program aimed at providing better homes for low-income families while at the same reducing the number of substandard homes, said Pester.

But such efforts have been "far too little too late" in combating blight in the city's neighborhoods, Pester continued.

Presently, of the estimated 648 abandoned houses in the city, 328 are believed owned by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Federal Housing Administration (FHA) titles, 62 by the Veterans Administration, and the remainder by savings and loan associations and other lending institutions.

Pester and Maggie O'Donnel, city housing coordinator, presented a comprehensive report on the extent of the problem, causes and possible solutions. Some 60 residents attended the meeting, including nine who spoke.

The council directed the city staff to continue talks with officials from other levels of government in exploring possible solutions and to concentrate city services in neighborhoods that appear to need more than is offered by present scheduling.

Councilman R. T. French noted the interest shown by the public in the problem and at his suggestion, the council asked that the city staff issue monthly reports so the public will be aware of the progress being made.

According to the report presented by Pester and Mrs. O'Donnell, a number of social and economic forces and other factors have contributed to the problem of abandoned houses.

Mentioned were foreclosures because of second mortgage balloon payments, ability of residents to buy better homes elsewhere, a change in job opportunities, a rise in unemployment in the 1960s, school and racial problems, and concentrated efforts by the FHA and VA to move minority buyers into houses with minimal down payments, often without credit ratings being checked thoroughly and with the buyers lacking essential knowledge of home ownership.

Pester emphasized that the problem of abandoned houses was not peculiar to Pomona but was one faced by other cities in the county.

He said 50 per cent of Pomona's abandoned houses were concentrated in five areas, including one north of the San Bernardino Freeway and east of Towne Avenue where the freeway separates the neighborhood from the nearest city park.

Pester decried the practice of "upstream government" in its solutions to housing problems "without regard" to the effects its programs would have on neighborhoods.

What is needed is a new program of federal financing, a program that would provide funds to help homeowners rehabilitate their properties, he said.

Pester said the city staff has been working with officials from the HUD area office in Los Angeles about possible solutions and has established "a very good rapport" with those officials.

Some proposals have been made to the Los Angeles office, said Pester, including the use of some abandoned houses in good shape for community centers, and the tearing down of some of the boarded up units to make way for mini-parks.

But housing program policies are established in Washington, D. C., and the Los Angeles office is limited in what it can do, Pester said.

The Pomona council is organizing a regional committee of elected officials to look into the problem and has discussed possible legislative remedies with Assemblyman Joseph Montoya, D-50th Dist.

Pester asked that after foreclosures of homes, that the federal government keep control to rehabilitate and keep up their appearances and not let them become run-down and taken out of the housing market.

"If the present rate of abandonment continues, we'll have a major problem, a new kind of blight," he said, inasmuch as the percentage of substandard housing has been reduced to one-half of 1 per cent.

Among the residents who spoke was Clarence Robbins, who asked that in looking for solutions, the council solicit the help of Pomonans.

Mrs. Henrvella Smith complained that buyers often moved into houses later to find that equipment and housing standards were not up to par.

Mayor Ray J. Lepire expressed appreciation for the interest shown by residents, saying he was hopeful they would continue to make their views known.

Bandit robs gas station

POMONA — A lone and somewhat nervous gunman robbed a Vinton Avenue service station Monday afternoon of a small amount of cash while holding both owner and attendant at bay.

The gunman, according to police, walked into Don's Exxon Station at 555 Vinton at about 5:45 p.m. and asked attendant Kenneth A.Dykes, 19, of San Dimas for change for a quarter.

As Dykes opened the cash box, the man produced a revolver out of a paper bag he was carrying, ordered Dykes away from the box and took its contents.

At this point owner Don M. Walters, 56, came over from another part of the station to investigate. Both he and Dykes were told to "Stay put or I'll shoot" by the man as he began fleeing on foot.

The man threatened to shoot both as he fled and stopped at one point to open up the revolver to show them it was loaded.

Dykes gave chase, but lost the man, described as a male Negro, 25, 5 feet 11, 160 pounds, wearing a striped shirt and blue jeans.

Patti Jo Erickson, 18, Cal Poly coed competing for the title of queen of the Los Angeles County Fair Sept. 14-30, embraces a baby lamb as she thinks about the busy days ahead. The queen will be crowned during opening night ceremonies Friday, Sept. 14 at the grandstand.

Industrial arts students to display skills at fair

POMONA — Cash awards totaling $4,000 will be offered at the first Southern California Regional Industrial Arts Awards Program at the Los Angeles County Fair Sept. 14-30.

Conducted by the California State Department of Education and the Los Angeles County Fair Association, the awards program was created to encourage creativity, fine craftsmanship and good design among industrial students in the seventh through 12th grades.

Categories include drafting, electricity-electronics, graphic arts, industrial arts, metals and woods.

Grade classifications are set up so that judging of entries will be on the most equitable basis for grades 7-8, 9-10, and 11-12.

Judging is based on design-layout, craftsmanship, decoration-surface enrichment, difficulty-scope of article, and other factors.

A total of 20 Outstanding awards, each entitling the recipient to a $500 cash award, blue ribbon and certificate, and 40 Superior awards, each entitling the recipient to a $50 cash award, red ribbon, and certificate will be made at the regional program.

Award-winning students and their teachers will be invited to attend a banquet Sept. 28 at Griswold's in Claremont.

Each student having an entry on display will receive a certificate of merit, and each teacher of a student having a display entry will receive a certificate of commendation.

Industrial arts students enrolled in schools in Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Ventura, and Imperial counties should contact Lyle Mills, Los Angeles County Fair, P.O. Box 2250, Pomona 91766 for further information.

Y slates new swim classes for youngsters

POMONA — The Pomona Valley YMCA will be offering another session of swim lessons for preschool aged children beginning Aug. 20.

Two types of classes, mother-baby and tiny tot, will be offered. The mother-baby class is for youngsters from three months to 3 years, while the tiny tot class is for children from 3 to 6.

The lessons are one-half hour in length and meet twice a week for five weeks. The mother-baby classes will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays at 10 a.m. or on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 9:30 a.m. The tiny tot classes will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays at 9 and 9:30 a.m., or on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 9 a.m.

Instructor for the classes will be Michelle Parrish. Fee for the classes is $15.

For registration or information, persons may call 623-6433.

Casa Colina doctor elected to board

POMONA — Dr. Arthur Madorsky, a long-time member of the Casa Colina Hospital medical staff, has been named to the hospital's board of directors.

Dr. Madorsky, a Claremont resident, serves on the work evaluation team at Casa Colina for the Los Angeles County Heart Association, is chairman of the infection committee and vice chief of the medical staff.

Band will give concert Thursday

POMONA — Selections from "The Sound of Music" will be included in the seventh summer concert of the Pomona Concert Band on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Ganesha Park bandshell.

Under the direction of Stanton Selby the band will also perform the suite "Atlantis," "Doll Dance," "Serenata" and "Fantasy on American Sailing Songs." Marches included on the evening's program are "Burst of Flame," "Stepping Along," "World Events" and "Knightsbridge March."

Guest of honor for the concert will be Pomona Councilman Charles Bader.

Medi-Cal fraud charged

Third effort to convict psychiatrist will start

POMONA — Selection of a jury is expected to begin Wednesday in Superior Court here in the third state thrust against Dr. David G. Zappella, a former Pomona psychiatrist, charged with 17 counts of Medi-Cal welfare fraud.

The cases go back to 1970 when Dr. Zappella, former director of the Tri-City Mental Health Authority, operated the organization known as Mental Health Associates at 1504 San Bernardino Ave.

Dr. Zappella has been indicted by the county grand jury on accusations that he allowed unqualified persons to perform psychiatric services and billed the state for those services, and that he charged the state for services which he allegedly never rendered.

Deputy Dist. Atty. William Roth says the fraud involves several thousand dollars.

According to Roth, one of the "unqualified persons" in whose behalf Zappella has collected money from the state was Mrs. Doris Scott, former executive director of the Claremont Family Service, who has since resigned.

The trial, scheduled before Judge Glenn Pfau, is expected to last about two weeks. It will be the third time in the past 2½ years that Zappella will stand trial on the Medi-Cal charges.

The first time, in February, 1971, the charges were dismissed against him in Municipal Court, when the district attorney's office could not penetrate the doctor-patient confidence protected by the law to present evidence against him.

Charges were again dismissed against him in San Diego in April 1972 after a trial resulted in a hung jury. At that time, Zappella had agreed to reimburse the state for $720 in Medi-Cal payments rather than go through with another trial.

The latest charges are the result of a new investigation which culminated in grand jury indictments against Zappella last September.

The psychiatrist subsequently appealed to the courts for a writ of prohibition claiming he was being placed in double jeopardy and was being harassed by the state over an unusually long period of time. But his appeal was denied last May.

Zappella, who now lives in San Diego and works as chief of professional education in the San Diego County Mental Health Services, contends that the state investigations have made a "shambles" of his life during the past three years.

He says that as the result of the state's focusing on all of his activities, his private clinical practice has shrunk to a skeleton of what it used to be.

Nursing student fails, requests change in grade

WALNUT — A former Mt. San Antonio College student who reportedly failed her nursing studies twice has asked the Board of Trustees of the college to expunge her grade so that she could apply for admittance to a nursing program in another college.

But Thomas O'Connor, Vice president in charge of academic affairs at MSAC, said today that it would be against the law to change the grade.

The request as made last week by Mrs. Margaret Hughes of Diamond Bar, who claims her instructors were unfair to her. She said that unless the failing grade was removed, she would be unable to enroll elsewhere.

Her attorney, Alex Hoffen, declared that unless the trustees complied with Mrs. Hughes' wishes, she may sue the college.

O'Connor said the instructors had been fair and had given Mrs. Hughes several chances. He said she had a problem with her patient relationship on the job, in the clinical part of the multi-course program.

The trustees backed up the position of the instructors and the administrators and refused to alter the grade.

Interest piles up

State revenue share funds grow by $2.8 million

By KAREN SCHWARTZ
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Although California has not yet spent any of the $181.2-million received in 1972 under the federal revenue sharing program, Gov. Ronald Reagan has suggested where to use it and the legislature is expected to approve. In the meantime, the money had earned $2.8 million in interest as of March 31, 1973.

A just-released report by the General Accounting Office shows that of the $1.7-billion distributed among state governments during the first year of revenue sharing, only five states had spent a total of $242.7 million by March 31. Fourteen states had authorized the money to be spent in certain areas, and 24 states, including California, had reasonably good ideas as to where the money would eventually go.

Under the California plan, the funds would be given to the general fund, and later transferred to the state school fund. The money would then be divided among 1,200 school districts.

State aid to local schools would reach about $2.1 billion under this plan for the 1973-74 school year, a half billion more than the previous year.

The GAO report said, "State officials informed us that, without revenue sharing, state aid to schools probably would have been less, and that revenue sharing . . . probably would provide some property tax relief at the local level."

For the most part, each state government is free to spend its revenue sharing allotment wherever it pleases, provided it is not used in a way "which discriminates against race, color, sex or national origin."

To insure that the money is spent properly, however, each state government must put the money in a trust fund account. California included its funds in the state's pooled investment program, and earned $2.8 million in interest.

Of the money authorized for expenditure by the 14 states, higher education leads the list with the highest dollar amount. Corrections are next, followed by recreation and natural resources. Debt retirement and mental institutions also seem to be high priority items for most of the states.

Escapees imperil East-West pact

On the very day that Walter Ulbricht, the architect of the Berlin Wall, was laid in his grave, a dozen or more of his erstwhile East German subjects escaped from the country. As many others plotted an escape in the future.

Since an East-West agreement went into effect in June, 1972, under which East Germany agreed to permit free travel on the four highways linking West Germany with Berlin, 110 miles inside East Germany, the flow of refugees to the West has doubled. It now averages about 500 a month.

Out of 3,000 East Germans registered as refugees by the Bonn government in the first six months of this year, 2,000 stated that they had taken the highway route, either hidden in the trunks of automobiles registered in the West or by using false passports.

Though the refugee flow is a tiny trickle compared to what it was before the Wall, Berlin is still a leaking human sieve and the situation is causing concern in both Germanies.

In the East, the reason is obvious. In the West, the government is being placed in the unhappy position of having to crack down on those who assist East Germans in violation of the Berlin pact, despite its natural sympathies for the former refugees. It could close its eyes to the traffic, but only at the risk of East Germany reinstating, as it has threatened to do, the strict controls that existed before the agreement.

According to the East German Communist newspaper "Neues Deutschland," East Germans are being smuggled out of the country by "international gangster syndicates" who charge enormous sums — $30,000 to $40,000 for each person.

This is really a remarkable admission. Any East German who would pay $40,000 to leave the country must really want to leave. Many are helped by friends and relatives in the West, but many others seem able to afford to pay.

West German statistics show that, as in the past, a large proportion of the refugees are professionals — doctors, dentists, etc. — those earning the best livings in East Germany.

Many changes have taken place in East Germany since Ulbricht's obscene monument was built 10 years ago. Many of them have been for the better. The country is today one of the economic showcases of the Communist world.

But one fundamental thing is still lacking. The Germans call it "Freiheit." In English, it's "freedom."

Obscenity is as a ruling

It's happened already — what a lot of people predicted would happen as a result of the Supreme Court's ruling permitting a kind of local option on pornography.

A picture called "The Devil in Miss Jones," which was declared not obscene by a judge on the island of Manhattan two weeks previously, was ordered seized as obscene by a judge on the Bronx mainland.

In the latter principality, it would seem that prevailing community morality had been served — or at least the morality of those who made their voices the most prevalent.

According to Bronx District Attorney Mario Meola, his office had received hundreds of written and telephone complaints about the movie. When the action of the Manhattan judge was pointed out to him the D. A. replied:

"Obscenity is basically a person's opinion, anyway. I assume this will work its way up through the courts, probably even to the Supreme Court."

Here we go again.

Sure fire bait

Wayne Parker, manager of the Department of Fish and Game's Imperial Valley Warmwater Hatchery has latched onto a secret, and he's willing to share it with the state's anglers.

It's sure-fire catfish bait, it says here. According to Parker an acquaintance with a turn of mind that would be understandable to Hamlet's witches, stirred up the concoction and has, he says, caught 1,200 catfish with it in the past nine months.

Parker describes the recipe as "18 ounces of Limburger cheese, 2 pounds of beef brains and a small amount of water. Mix in jug and bury in ground for two weeks. Remove from ground and store in refrigerator until ready to use. (It's probably best if you're a bachelor.)

"When ready to go fishing, cut out small pieces of sponge and imbed hook in sponge. Then, being careful not to inhale deeply, dip sponge in prepared bait.

"You should (excuse the expression) knock 'em dead."

With all due respect to Wayne Parker and his friend, we somehow have the sneaking suspicion most anglers wouldn't touch that bait with a 10-foot fishing pole.

Pearson's Nixon: Drew was so right

WASHINGTON — The Drew Pearson who in 1945 summoned me to a job interview by telegram, thought I was only a few blocks away, was approaching the zenith of his fantastic career. He was an irrepressible idealist at the height of his influence, which he sometimes used to manipulate events.

The elegant Pearson, with his famous acquaintances, his dinner parties, finger bowls and wax-tipped mustache ends, and the gaudy world of postwar Washington to which he introduced me were a lot to drink in for a 24-year-old from the Salt licks.

My beat was corruption in the nation's capital, and I was caught up in Drew's many crusades and vendettas.

Contrary to popular theology, there is nothing that produces as much exhiliration, zest for living and all-round gratification as a protracted, ugly, bitter-end vendetta that rages for years and comes close to ruining both sides.

One of the secrets of Drew's resilience and buoyancy to the end of his life was his involvement in several of these mortal feuds.

Not like Pearson

I have never been able to develop enough enthusiasm for Democrats to resent Republicans the way Drew did and I suffer from some phlegmatism of spirit that inhibits bitter personal animosities.

Drew developed a special hostility for Richard Nixon. Scarcely had the young Whig from Whittier made his first misrepresentation than Drew cast the evileye on him. Yet I managed to get along quite affably with Nixon during his early congressional years.

After he ascended to the presidency, I espoused the spirit of Herb Block who gave Nixon a free shave and made him look more presentable in the Washington Post cartoons. I, too, tried to humanize this dogged, dauntless President with the unfortunate sloping nose, the marionette hand gestures and the robot-like personality.

I knew Richard Nixon to be a deeply private person, warm, shy, sensitive man, who sometimes woke up wondering whether he was President. "I would have a feeling," he told a friend, "that I had something to tell the President. Then I would suddenly shake myself awake and realize I am the President."

Tried to understand

I tried to look beneath the psycholotical scar tissue he had accumulated as he drove himself into one bruising battle after another, slashing his way to the top, suffering inwardly from the political shellfire. I tried to understand this lonely, suspicious President who fought so hard for public approval and was rebuffed so often.

I knew how he must have felt during his sightseeing stop at a Leningrad castle after the Moscow summit meeting. The guide showed him a spot where the acoustics made a few hand pats sound like great applause. The President, auphoric over the success of his negotiations with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, announced: "I am going to applaud myself." He clapped his hands and beamed happily when the magnified applause roared back.

I joined in the applause over his triumphs in Moscow and Peking. I wrote about the Nixon of yesterday who waited in a boarding house most evenings to help a crippled college classmate up two flights of stairs, about the Nixon of today who secretly paid the tuition and expenses of two black college students.

But I sense the ghost of Drew Pearson hovering restlessly over my typewriter. He must be in a magnificent rage over the Watergate revelations, which confirm the worst he ever wrote about Richard Nixon.

Early credo

Most of the controversial hypotheses that motivate muckrakers today, much lamented by the Spiro Agnews, are in reality the quintessence of the early American credo.

During my own childhood in the Utah of the 1930s, I swallowed great doses of patriotism from which I still get periodic twinges. I was brought up to respect government and its processes. But I was also taught the sanctity of the Constitution and the primacy of laws over men, all of which placed limits upon the proper sphere of government.

No longer can I suppress my outrage over the abuse of power at the pinnacle. No longer can I permit my respect for the presidency to shut my eyes to the naked Nixon, the emperor stripped of his clothes by Watergate. No longer can I accept that Nixon was cut off from the truth, that he did not know what was going on in his own tight, little White House circle.

Drew Pearson sensed the fatal flaw in Nixon's character a quarter century ago. Drew was all too right about Nixon.

Dirty deeds

There are still many Americans who see the seemingly endless revelations of Watergate as the President once described it: "a third-rate burglary." But the burglary has been lost in the plethora of dirty deeds; it was merely the key to a Pandora's box.

The Nixon coterie encroached upon the powers of Congress, trampled upon the rights of the press, violated our most basic freedoms. With eyes as cold as the marble around them, they sat in the witness chair in the Sentate caucus room and arrogantly asserted what they called the President's right to steal and wiretap and rig court cases. They justified it all in the name of national security.

They goaded dissidents, encouraged demonstrations, rejoiced over a report that there might be violence at a presidential function. "Good," scrawled White House chief of staff Bob Haldeman in response to the report that the demonstrators "will be violent; they will have extremely obscene signs."

Then to protect the nation from such demonstrators, the President and his people claimed the right to violate fundamental freedoms. There is even now pending in Congress a detailed Nixon proposal that would give him unprecedented powers in the name of national security.

The White House crowd, in short, has put national security ahead of the Constitution. The language of the Constitution — the people, justice, tranquility, welfare, liberty — would protect the people from the government. The language of the Nixonites — law and order, secrecy, surveillance, executive privilege — would protect the government from the people.

Women's lib: but is it 'progress'?

Women have more equal legal rights. More women are accepted in jobs heretofore reserved for men only. Women have stormed the swinging door. But is it "progress"?

Who wears the britches in the family has been decided. She does. Women in pantsuits, men in caftans, but still the world did not come to an end.

And I look at a centerfold featuring a male movie star and wonder if Women's Lib—intended to emancipate them—did not, in fact, free exhibitionish men to unsupress some long dormant desires.

"Angel Lane," striptease dancer in London advertised as "the body divine," is male. Employment equality is not new. Pioneer women dug ditches, walked plows, chopped wood alongside their men. Doting males and consumerism freed women from most drudgery—then excluded them from it. Now many want back in.

The Los Angeles City Council has approved a "unisex police force"; no distinctions; women are on dangerous street patrol right alongside men.

Pennsylvania's courts decree any athletic code which discriminates is "unconstitutional"; Pennsylvania women are herewith free professionally to "wrestle."

In 1900 slightly more than 5 million women were employed outside the home; today 31.6 million are. Sister Jeanne Knoerle, president of St. Mary-of-the-Woods College, says "women are in the middle of a fantastic period of human history, one of the greatest periods of social change, but is it 'progress'?"

She says, "A majority of women have been basically happy until the shifting viewpoint made them feel guilty for feeling satisfied. Now they face at least a temporary disorientation of family life."

One of the world's most liberated women, Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, recently described Women's Lib as "those nuts that burn their undergarments and walk around disheveled and hate men."

But when the man-haters have had their say and the zealots have exhausted their ammunition and the nitpickers have turned us off, it will be seen that some desirable social change has been included in the mishmash.

Women who want to be policewomen now may be.

Women, debased by a published proliferation of nude women with some "sauce for the gander," showing us our own unlovely selves naked in public, may help mature male lust.

With each sex escaping from the stereotype, the he-man image will not be obligatory and femininity will be less limiting, and yes, that is "progress."

Gossip for today

Near the California-Oregon border, the Oregonians have posted signs designed to discourage propective settlers from coming to their state. One such billboard features a straight black line across its center ten feet above the level of the ground, which is labeled, "Highwater Mark During the Flood of 1971."

Down here in Southern California, however, we are a bit more subtle in our efforts to hold down the population influx. For one thing, we take the indirect approach by broadcasting in the nation's press that our federal agencies are closing their offices during high smog levels. And here in the Pomona Valley we have even resorted to more drastic measures. After issuing a warning that this area is right in the heart of rattlesnake country, we add that last year 1,800 people in Southern California were bitten by poisonous snakes.

INSIDE REPORT

Mrs. Hall may have other 'souvenirs'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The stunning secret memorandum that brought the ITT affair to the door of the Oval Office was given Senate investigators by Charles W. Colson's former confidential assistant who now performs similar duties for Secretary of Labor Peter Brennan.

Sen. Sam Ervin's Watergate investigating committee has kept secret the name of the unidentified secretary who turned over the explosive 1972 memo on ITT by then presidential aide Colson. In fact, it was Joan Jall, Colson's skilled private secretary until he left the White House this year — a shocker that will send a shiver through the administration.

"Joan Hall knows more about Chuck Colson than he knows himself," one White House aide told us. She kept his financial records and had full access to the torrent of memos that flowed from his office. Thus, the unanswered mystery: is the ITT memo just the beginning?

Near the end of 1972, Mrs. Hall complained to friends about long hours and vocal abuse that went with being Colson's secretary. But there was no sign of a break between them. Indeed, Colson secured a $17,794 job for Mrs. Hall as administrative assistant to his friend Brennan — partly, some at the White House felt, to make sure she did not talk too much to investigators and grand juries.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Hall was interviewed by Ervin committee investigators the evening of Aug. 1. Contrary to usual practice, no Republican staffers were present. At that time, Mrs. Hall turned over the March 30, 1972, Colson memo warning that other secret internal memos would "directly involve" President Nixon in the favorable antitrust ruling for the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT). She also turned over other unspecified documents.

Her motives are a mystery. Contending that "I don't have to talk to you about this," Mrs. Hall told us nothing. The Senate investigators are also mute. Colson told us Mrs. Hall had taken the ITT memo home as a "souvenir" of her days in the White House but felt compelled to hand it over when a Senate subpoena asked for any pertinent documents in her possession.

However, former associates of Mrs. Hall describe her as a battle-seasoned veteran of the bureaucratic wars who would not dream of taking home an explosive document for sentimental reasons. Their questions: Why did she turn over the ITT memo? Are there any more explosive "souvenirs" at home?

Agnew and Beall

George Beall, who as U.S. Attorney in Baltimore supervises the wide-ranging investigation that includes Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, would never have been appointed to that post by President Nixon if Agnew had been given his way.

Although Agnew told his press conference that "I know (Beall) very casually," there has been an undercurrent of tension between the two Maryland Republicans for five years.

As a 30-year-old delegate to the 1968 Republican national convention, Beall resisted then Gov. Agnew's attempt to swing the entire Maryland delegation to Richard M. Nixon and voted instead for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York — which intensely irritated Agnew.

When Beall's name came up in 1970 for the U.S. Attorney's post, there was quiet but unmistakable opposition from the Vice President's office. Mr. Nixon named him anyway, following an endorsement from Sen. Charles Mathias and, much more important, vigorous support from his brother—Nixon booster J. Glenn Beall, then a Congressman who was elected that year to the Senate seat once held by their father.

Maryland political figures regard George Beall as a prosecutor of the highest integrity who would not let past political differences influence decisions.

Agnew's delay

Even before Vice President Agnew became the target of federal investigators, his reluctance to commit himself privately as a 1976 presidential condidate had caused severe problems for pro-Agnew political operatives being wooed by Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

One such operative as Ernst Minor, the ace scheduler who left the Vice President's office in 1971 to take a top job with the Environmental Protection Agency in Cincinnati.

Reagan wants to sign the experienced Minor for his own heavy scheduling work late this year and next, a job that will grow as the 1976 campaign nears. Minor, an Agnewite of unimpeachable loyalty, had not said yes or no before the federal investigation was revealed. He is convinced Agnew will be fully cleared of all charges, but his dilemma remains: whether Agnew, like Reagan, definitely plans to run for the presidential nomination.

A footnote: Another Reagon-wooed operative is Paul Russo, former advance man at the Republican National Committee. Reagan wants Russo, an ex-aide of Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, as his chief advance man.

Higher enrollment, program changes for Walnut

WALNUT — The September 11th opening of Walnut schools will not only feature new educational programs and approaches, but also the largest cast of students in the district's four-year history.

The district's enrollment has increased to 5,330 students, 301 more students than entered the district in September 1972. The increase is due to a building boom in the Walnut-Diamond Bar area.

The new students have placed a strain on existing school facilities and necessitated the addition of a relocatable building at Walnut Elementary and 14 new teachers.

September will also mark the beginning of a comprehensive study of educational needs of 12- through 16-year-old students, new instructional guidelines for art and English composition education, a new registration program at Walnut High School and an end to a federal reading and arithmetic program.

The educational need study will involve research and discussion into the needs of the 12-16 age group with emphasis on social and extra curricular activities and the district's class elective programs.

Jack Jolley, assistant superintendent, Joe Moody, Suzanne Intermediate School principal, Al Stone, assistant principal and eight Suzanne teachers will undertake the study.

The art and English composition guidelines are two of main outlines to be prepared over a five-year period to aid teachers in establishing minimum requirements in all subject areas.

The recently completed guidelines will be published in September and distributed to all teachers. A workshop has been scheduled in October to explain how each study guide may be used to its utmost advantage by individual teachers.

The high school's new registration program will begin Sept. 4 from 8:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Walnut High gymnasium. The program encourages teacher participation, the development of student decision making abilities and eliminates problems with massive program changes common in the past.

Registration will continue for three days, Sept. 4, 5, and 6, with seniors registering on Tuesday, Sept. 4 from 8:45 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.; juniors on Tuesday afternoon from 12:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.; sophomores on Wednesday, Sept. 5 from 8:45 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. and freshmen on Wednesday from 12:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. Open registration will be used and the teacher will be involved personally in each student's program selection.

Teachers will explain the special requirements for their classes and what they will deal with, avoiding a misunderstanding over course content and class registration changes after school begins.

The title one program, phased out because Congress did not extend the bill this year, was designed to help educationally disadvantaged children in mathematics and reading skill development.

Title one gave the district a good look at the advantages of individualized instruction, officials said. Under the program funding was allocated for instructional aides to be hired on a full-time basis, allowing the teacher to spend more time with children having difficulties without neglecting other students.

The Walnut district will also launch a new comprehensive clinical study on venereal diseases in seventh grade classes at Suzanne Intermediate School. The program, which took over a year to prepare, will be taught in science classes as part of the regular curriculum. Parents will be given the opportunity to withdraw their children from this portion of the science class studies if they so desire.

In addition to the new teachers, William Dean White will assume for the first time the principal job at Walnut Elementary School.

White is a graduate of the California Baptist College with a group major in political science, philosophy and history. He later obtained a second bachelor's degree from Whittier College in history. He completed his masters' degrees in education from Whittier and in school administration from California State University at Fullerton.

He began his teaching career in 1955 and has taught in grades four through eight and served for two years as Dean of Students at Brea-Olinda High School. His administrative experience includes service as a teacher-principal and principal in both kindergarten through eighth grade schools and kindergarten through sixth grade.

D.B. municipal council idea before Schabarum

DIAMOND BAR — Diamond Bar's application for municipal advisory council status is under study by Supervisor Peter Schabarum and his staff.

Schabarum has reported to Chuck Hall of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association that the application would be presented to the Board of Supervisors only after careful investigation and consideration of the possible success of this unprecedented governmental form in the county.

Schabarum said he felt the necessity of positive assurance that the municipal advisory council application did in fact represent the consensus of the total community.

Hall, a strong supporter of the municipal advisory council concept, urged Diamond Bar homeowners to write to the Board of Supervisors "regarding their feelings on this crucial matter."

Were the application to be approved by the Board of Supervisors, a Diamond Bar Municipal Advisory Council would be formed to serve as an advisory body to the Board of Supervisors.

The application was submitted to Schabarum in June.

The concept has the endorsement of Assemblyman Joseph B. Montoya, D-50th Dist.

Planners in Walnut will view open-space proposal

WALNUT — Local planning commissioners will review an open space plan for the city Wednesday. The plan, called an "environmental resources management element," was prepared by the Lampman and Associates planning firm.

Lampman officials have finalized the plan and are now seeking commission and city Council suggestions for the document.

A public hearing n a rural overlay zone regulating the keeping of horses in the Gartel-Fuerte area of the city is also scheduled. The zone requirements, drafted by a special citizens committee, have bounced back and forth between the commission and council for more than four months.

Site plan reviews are scheduled for three Walnut projects under the development review portion of the 7:30 p.m. meeting. The reviews are for single family homes planned by Rudolph E. Camacho at the Gartel and Fuerte Drives junction, Louis Kelson at 893 Pierre Road and by Phillip Cobos at the corner of Gartel Rod and Cantel Drive.

THE CHANGING OF THE SIGNS Donna Interlicchia, a minutes clerk with the City of Walnut, displays one of the city's newly designed street signs. They will go up in new tracts throughout the city.

Rural-zone plan shows aging signs

WALNUT — Business took a lighthearted tone at last week's Walnut City Council meeting as councilmen continued action on a proposed rural zone for horses in the Gartel-Fuerte Drive area for about the fifth time in recent months.

The proposed rural zone has bounced back and forth between the Planning Commission, City Council and a special citizens committee delegated to study the proposal.

When it reappeared on Wednesday's council agenda under late business, and was continued to the council's Oct. 10 meeting, City Manager Andy Lazzaretto joked that "the next time we put that on the agenda it will be under 'ancient business'."

LA PUENTE — A drafting class, titled "Design Your Own Room Addition," will be offered by the new La Puente Community Adult School starting Sept. 12.

It will be taught by Dave Meyer, chief planner and engineer for the City of La Puente, and will meet each Wednesday from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. at the Newton Junior High School in Hacienda Heights.

The adult school is part of the Hacienda-La Puente Unified School District.

Those interested in enrolling may call the adult school at 213 968-8452.

Hearing on pollution waiver for company

INDUSTRY — The request for a variance to operate in violation of standards, filed by Quemetco, Inc., 720 S. Seventh Ave., will be considered at a public hearing Aug. 23, of the hearing board of the Air Pollution Control District of Los Angeles County.

The hearing will be held at 2 p.m. in Room 903 at 313 N. Figueroa St., Los Angeles.

Parties may represent relevant evidence and may cross examine opposing witnesses.

Open house at Walnut library

WALNUT — The Walnut Public Library will celebrate its third birthday Thursday with an open house featuring a pictorial presentation on Walnut's history.

The open house will be from 2 to 4 p.m. at the 134 N. Pierre Road library.

Pomonan's son receives degree

POMONA — Capt. Timothy J. Desiderio, the son of Mrs. Pat Becker of 1199 Hillside Drive, was among 43 graduates who received bachelor's degrees from Park College, Kansas City, Mo., at recent commencement exercises.

Desiderio received his degree summa cum laude in history with a minor in political science.

Winners disclosed

2,500 at Walnut festival

WALNUT — More than 2,500 local residents participated in Walnut's 10th annual Sports Festival and community picnic Saturday and Sunday.

The event, sponsored by the Walnut Kiwanis Club, was created in the hopes of fostering community identity and awareness in the old-fashioned "small town" tradition.

The following are the results of recreational events held during the two-day event:

Winners in the various divisions of the sack races were T. Miller of Rowland Heights; A. Strathman, Fullerton; R. Robinson, La Puente; R. Packer, Walnut and L. Russo of Pomona.

In egg-throwing competition winners were P. Arlt, P. Krebs, B. Noelte and H. Hudson, all of Walnut and L. McQuarrie and B. McQuarrie, both of Garden Grove, and R. Packer and S. Kelley of Walnut and J. Wilson and Linn Wilson of Westminster.

Wheel barrow race winners were B. Chacon and T. Miller of Rowland Heights; S. Schmich and B. Popham of Walnut; L. Wange and M. Large of Huntington Beach and S. Kelly and R. Packer of Walnut.

Winners in the 50-yard dash were N. Oerth of Whittier; J. Hannan of West Covina; R. Rampsch, Gorden Grove; T. Miller, Rowland Heights; M. Hannafin, Lakewood; V. McCarthy, Huntington Beach; R. Robinson of La Puente and C. Willson of Westminster.

Water balloon catch winners were B. Miller and G. Franks of Walnut. In the walnut shelling contest R. Papetti of Walnut won; while pie-eating competition was won by C. Moore of Covina. Watermelon-eating and seed-spitting champion was P. Dillingham of Huntington Beach.

The six-mile walk was won by E. Bouloin while the girls one-mile run winners were K. Wilson, C. Nunez and S. Keith. M. Albert of Rialto won the girls two-mile run. Boys one-mile-run winners were R. Salcido and R. Cook, both of Rialto. Two-mile boys winner was W. Goloviz of Olive while B. Graves of Bishop Amat took the boys six-mile run competition. Phil Ryan took the open six-mile run.

In the slo-pitch softball competition the Foothill Dairy team of Rosemead took the championship with the consolation prize going to the Rangers of Covina.

Library books films, lecture on dreaming

POMONA — Showing of three films and a program about dreams and their meaning will be presented by the Pomona Public Library on Wednesday.

The films, "Delicieuse Catastrophe," "Resurrection of Bronco Billy," and "Up Is Down," will be shown starting at 2 p.m. as part of the Magic Lantern summer series.

Clifton W. King, executive director of the Chase-King Personal Development Center in Upland, will give a talk on dreams and how they might influence a person's life.

His talk will be given in the library's public conference room at 7:30 p.m.

"One of the greatest things about dreams is that they are a problem-solving device. They give you answers to every day situations," said King.

Both library programs are available to the public free of charge.

New street signs going up in Walnut

WALNUT — New street signs will grace the corners of new housing tracts here and will eventually replace all city street signs.

The signs, done with a reflective material in brown with yellow lettering, show the street name in slanted letters with "The City of Walnut," and a Walnut tree at the top of the sign.

The $35 signs, which will be paid for by housing developers for their individual tracts, will go up first in the Kaufman and Broad tract on Carrey Road and Vejar Road. The signs replace $11 signs currently issued by the county, with the city buying them as the older signs wear or fade out.

Receives degrees

POMONA — Victoria J. Smith of Pomona was among over 1,700 graduates who received their degrees at Cal Poly's recent commencement ceremonies.

Miss Smith received her bachelor of science degree in language arts.

YMCA unit will open a preschool

DIAMOND BAR — The YMCA's Diamond Bar-Walnut Branch will open a preschool program Sept. 17.

Parents interested in enrolling children may call the Y office at 595-5015.

To be called the Y Toddlers Preschool, the program is licensed by the state. Following YMCA policy, it will include activities for the total development of the child: social, spiritual, mental, psychological and emotional.

Importance is attached to the child's self-image.

The preschool will offer classes for children 2½ to 4 two days a week, 2½ hours in the mornings and 2 hours in the afternoons.

This will be a mother participation program. Each mother will be asked to assist one day every six weeks.

The fee is $17 for the morning program and $15 a month for the afternoon program.

In addition, a one-day class will meet each Friday. It will be called the YMCA Kiddie Klub.

It will accept children 2 to 5, transport them to the Pomona Y for a kindergym program and include a daily special event.

The fee for this activity is $8 a month or $6.50 for those who add it to a morning or afternoon program as a third-day.

L.A. extends West lead

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The come-from-in-backers are coming back!

Through July 27, the Dodgers had come from behind to win 28 times this season. But 15 games passed before number 29 was accomplished. That came Sunday, 2-1, over Philadelphia.

Monday night the Angelenos made it two in a row and reached the 30 mark in come-from-in-back victories with an 8-5 win over Montreal.

And the Dodger lead over Cincinnati edged up to 2½ games.

Trailing 3-0 because of Ken Singleton's three-run first-inning home run, the Dodgers pecked away at Mike Torrez for single runs in the first, second, and fourth innings to knot the count at 3-3.

One of the runs came when Bill Russell scored from first on Claude Osteen's single. Russell was off with the pitch and when he saw Ron Fairly throw to second base, Russell raced around third and beat the relay to the plate.

Willie Crawford's two-run homer off Pat Jarvis (2-1) in the fifth provided a 5-3 lead. It was his 10th round tripper and he also rapped his 22nd double and batted in a total of four runs in the game to raise his season mark to 51.

But Osteen (14-5) couldn't hold the 7-3 lead and was taken out after giving up four runs on 10 hits including two homers. There was a run home, two men on, and nobody out in the eighth when the call went out to Jim Brewer.

Brewer walked the bases loaded and then proceeded to retire the side on the next 10 pitches without allowing a run to score.

In the ninth, Brewer walked the leadoff batter, got the next two (although wild-pitching the runner to second) and then was touched for a run-scoring double by the pesky Singleton who now boasts 21 homers and 80 runs batted in.

"I just couldn't get my stuff over when I came in," confessed Brewer. "My pitches were nowhere near the plate. Then, all of a sudden, I started getting the ball where I wanted it. I struck out Tim Foli and Pepe Frias and got (pinch hitter) Boots Day on a ground out all on screwballs."

As for his ninth inning difficulties, Brewer said (coach) Red Adams had told him to slow down. "It seemed like I had rushed to get warmed up and rushed to get into the game," Brewer said. "So I was concentrating on slowing down and I just couldn't get the ball over the plate again. But we won and that's the important thing," he grinned.

Crawford explained his hitting this way. "The biggest thing I'm trying to do with men on base," he said, "is to hit the ball hard."

Crawford also predicted brighter things for Dodger run production. "Willie Davis isn't hitting much right now," he said, "but he'll come back. When he comes out of it I think our club is really going to boom."

In a change of pitching plans, the Expos will start Balor Moore (6-11) tonight against Tommy John (11-7).

DODGER NOTES — The Dodgers finally have a backup shortstop for Bill Russell. Prior to Monday night's game the club announced the purchase of Jerry Royster, their top-rated prospect at Albuquerque. Royster is a 20-year-old third baseman who was switched to shortstop and has played just 28 games there.

Royster is 6-0, 160 pounds, bats and throws righthanded. At Albuquerque he played in 121 games, hit .302 with 24 doubles, 11 triples, and six home runs. He stole 21 bases and batted in 66 runs. He is due to report tonight and will wear number 8.

To make room for Royster, knuckleballer Charlie Hough has been optioned to Albuquerque. Hough appeared in 23 games, pitched 37 2-3 innings allowing 24 hits while striking out 41 and walking 26. He had a 1-2 record and was credited with one save. His earned run average was 3.31.

The filmed interview with Dodger publicity director and former P-B sports editor Fred Claire has now been re-scheduled for broadcast on Dodger Dugout Sunday, August 26 prior to the televised Dodgers-Phils game on channel 11.

BIG NIGHT FOR WHITE

Roy White of the Yankees is greeted by Matty Alou (left) and Bobby Murcer (1) after hitting two-run homer in second inning, the second of the night in 6-0 win over the Angels.

White's homers sink poor Halos

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roy White took notice of a golden full moon rising over Yankee Stadium Monday night and shot for it from both sides of the plate.

He didn't quite reach that far, but he was more than happy, settling for a pair of homers—one lefty and one righty — and a backhanded, fence-straddling catch that saved a shutout for George Medich.

"That sure was a beautiful moon out there," White said after nearly single-handedly beating the California Angels 6-0.

Everything looked beautiful to the Yankees as they rallied for all their runs in the first two innings then settled back to watch Medich hurl a five-hitter and give them their easiest win in a long time.

"I just hope this is the turning point," White said. "We've been playing bad baseball lately and maybe now we've got it out of our system."

Against the Angels, the Yankees finally looked solid again and their victory—only their sixth in the last 18 games —combined with Boston's defeat, put them in third place behind Detroit and Baltimore.

White was the key force, of course, with his solo homer from the right side of the plate off lefthander Rudy May in the first inning and his two-run homer from the left side off righthanded reliever Dick Lange in the second inning. It was the second time in his career that White has switch-hit two homers in the same game and the pair gave him 14 for the year.

"The last time I did that was May 7, 1970 against Oakland," White told newsmen after the game. "You remember things like that."

But White was superb in the field as well. Medich supplied most of the early defense, limiting the Angels to two hits while striking out three over the first five innings. In the sixth he gave up a two-out single to Frank Robinson. Bob Oliver stepped up next and lofted a drive deep to left that seemed a certain home run. White had different plans.

"I had a bead on it all the way," White said. "I didn't know if I'd be able to reach it but I knew it'd be close. The angle in left is pretty tough and I couldn't turn to look at the wall. I had to keep running and when I thought the wall was there I just jumped. I never even touched the wall with my hand but I jumped up with my leg on the wall and I was practically standing on the rubber cushion on top of it."

Barney foils K.C.'s come back victory

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Seven-year pro Lem Barney ruined an expected tie game for 67,624 befuddled spectators Monday night and won another game for the Detroit Lions.

Seventeen-year veteran Len Dawson entered the game with 6:32 left and guided the Kansas City Chiefs 82 yards in 17 plays, throwing a fourth-down 10-yard touchdown pass to Elmo Wright with 1:18 remaining.

All that remained was for Jan Stenerud to kick the extra point. But Barney shot through untouched and blocked the kick, giving the Lions a 17-16 victory.

"I just shot straight in from the left side and got it with my left hand," said Barney, who earlier set up the Lions' first touchdown with a 29-yard pass interception to the Chiefs' two.

"Mike Weger took Wendell Hayes in and I just went around him," said Barney.

Dawson, who was the holder for the extra point, said, "I know where he (Barney) came from, but I don't know what happened. It's such a shame. That's where you need the two-point rule so you can go for the win."

Pete Beathard directed the Chiefs until the final drive when the 38-year-old Dawson saw his first action of the season.

"The Chiefs proved in the end they wanted to win," said Barney. "They put Dawson in and he proved his worth. He moved the ball."

The victory was the second of the exhibition season for the Lions, while the Chiefs dropped to 1-1.

Greg Landry directed two Lions' scoring drives in the second half. He capped an 80-yard, 15-play drive with a two-yard keeper for a touchdown, then led another assault that ended with a 16-yard field goal by Errol Mann, which proved to be the winning points.

Landry hit 6 of 11 passes for 55 yards and gained another 38 yards running. Bill Munson completed 5 of 15 passes for 39 yards in the first half.

Dawson, in his one drive, hit 7 of 13 passes for 57 yards.

Detroit next plays Saturday night in Memphis against the Baltimore Colts, while the Chiefs play their third straight home exhibition game, also Saturday night, against the Minnesota Vikings.

Big meetings begin today for baseball

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Baseball owners began gathering today for the summer baseball meetings which could turn out to be one of the most historic in baseball.

Owners are scheduled to consider inter-league play for 1974 and the return of baseball to the nation's capital.

The inter-league play proposal has and would enable natural rivals, such as the California Angels and Los Angeles Dodgers to meet in regular season games.

A four-man committee will present recommendations to the owners. The schedule would see each team playing four or six games against a team from the opposite league.

The committee is made up of American League President Joe Cronin, National League President Chub Feeney, Milwaukee Brewers' President Alan "Bud" Selig and Cincinnati Reds President Francis Dale.

National League owners will consider the San Diego Padres' proposed move to Washington, D.C., next year. The Padres have a long-term lease with San Diego and the city has gone to court to seek a restraining order to stop the move.

National League owners, who would have to approve the move unanimously, have scheduled a special meeting for today, in advance of the regular meetings Wednesday and Thursday, to consider the San Diego case.

Evert appears ready to defend tennis crown

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Defending Champion Chris Evert had little trouble in her opening match of the $90,000 National Clay Courts tennis tourney which began Monday, but fifth seeded Patti Hogan of LaJolla, Calif., was upset by England's Veronica Burton, 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 19-year-old runnerup Sunday in the Western Championships at Cincinnati, easily defeated Pat Bostrom of Seattle in her opening quest for the $6,000 first prize. She raced through her match, 6-0, 6-0.

Miss Burton jumped to an early three game lead against Miss Hogan as the California resident had problems with her service all during the match, double faulting eight times.

Another former women' champion, Linda Tuero, New Orleans, seeded seventh, defeated Michelle Gurdal of Belgium, 6-2, 6-3.

In the opening round of men's singles, which pays $10,000 to the winner, sixth-seeded Mark Cox of England whipped Patrick Dupre, Birmingham, Ala., 6-2, 6-2, and seventh-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina dropped Frank Froehling, Lauderhill, Fla., 6-4, 6-2.

In other men's action for non-seeded players, Belus Prajoux of Chile defeated Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison, 6-4, 6-2; James Delaney, Patomic, Md., whipped Wanard N'Godrella of France, 6-4, 6-1, and Spain's Antonio Munoz lost his opening set to George Seewagen of New York, 7-5, but came back to win the next two with identical 6-1 scores.

Jeanne Evert, 15-year -old sister of Chris, fought off Marily Tesch of Australia, 7-6, 6-3. The younger girl is seeded fourth.

Patrick Proisy of France, seeded 11th in men's singles, defeated Billy Martin, Palos Verdes, Calif., 7-5, 6-0 in a late-starting match Monday. In a match suspended by darkness, Haroon Rahim of Pakistan and Paul Gerken, East Norwalk, Conn., were tied with one set each.

Top-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain, second seeded Jimmy Connor, Los Angeles, and Cliff Richey, Sarasota, Fla., winner of the Clay title in 1966 and 1970, will start play today.

Hank opens three-game set on his favorite turf

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hank Aaron will be playing in one of his favorite home run parks for the next three games when the Atlanta Braves play the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

Aaron, whose current home run pace will enable him to finish the season with 711 homers—three behind Babe Ruth's all-time career record of 714—has hit 48 of his cereer homers at Wrigley Field. Milwaukee's County Stadium and Atlanta Stadium are the only parks in which he has hit more.

Aaron has hit 28 homers in the Braves' 116 games this season. Should he continue that pace in Atlanta's remaining 47 games, he will hit 10 more for a season total of 711.

The Cubs' scheduled pitcher in the first of the three games in Chicago is Ferguson Jenkins, a six-time 20-game winner who has a 10-11 mark this season.

Mack doubtful to face Oakland

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — All-Pro guard Tom Mack, who suffered a bruised right shoulder in the Los Angeles Rams' 21-21 tie with Cleveland last weekend, is listed as doubtful for Saturday's game against Oakland.

Mack and rookie offensive tackle Tim Stokes were both injured in the Rams' second game of the preseason. Stokes, however, went through Monday's two-hour drills and appeared to be fully recovered from a mild concussion and a sprained ankle.

Los Angeles' regular tight end, Bob Klein, did not play against Cleveland because of a rib injury he sustained in practice during the previous week. He participated in half of Monday's drills.

Losers to the Dallas Cowboys in their opening preseason appearance, the Rams seek their first victory of the summer Saturday afternoon against the Raiders in Berkeley, Calif.

U.S. team under heavy security

MOSCOW (UPI) — The bounce-bounce-bounce of basketballs drowned out the aura of frustration today which hung over the U. S. delegation of student - athletes holed up at the heavily-guarded University of Moscow for the upcoming World University Games.

The triumphant U.S. basketball team, which has just completed a clean sweep of 11 games through Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria, showed surprise—but little concern—over the heavy security measures that Soviet authorities have maintained here.

The cagers, last of the U.S. contingents to arrive, went straight to practice on Monday while the rest of the American athletes awaited the issuing of special passes that would finally free them from the University grounds and allow them to gain access to the "city outside."

"This is quite a new experience," said Ed Badger, head coach of the basketball team from Wilbur Wright J. C. in Chicago. "We were able to move freely with our visas in all the other Iron Gurtain countries.

"But maybe all this is good— especially after what happened last year in Munich. All I know is, we're here to play basketball, not to get involved in politics."

Badger's team already has been playing some kind of basketball, despite being probably the youngest contingent (average 19 years) ever sent overseas by the U.S. They swept to three wins in Poland, four more in Czechoslovakia and another four in Bulgaria— never allowing the opposition to come closer than 14 points.

"We've clicked very well," Indiana's Quinn Buckner said. "I think the important thing that has kept our morale so high and winning attitude so good is the way the coaches have handled us.

"We're playing a freelance type game and there are very few set plays or patterns, that's the only way you can do it when you throw a bunch of guys together for the first time."

Badger, however, likes to credit the talent he's coaching.

"I'm not really surprised how well this team is going," he said. "We knew they were good when we picked them—even though there were others we wanted too, but couldn't get."

While U.S. Embassy officials and some of the team sponsors struggled to straighten out the credentials problem, the American team suffered a major setback before ever leaving its quarters when John Crosby, the star of the gymnastic team, was felled by an appendix attack.

Crosby, a former NCAA champion and winner of eight medals in the 1971 Pan American Games (including three golds) was rushed to a nearby hospital for an emergency operation.

Super Star Tourney

Havilcek heads into final day

ROTUNDA, Fla. (UPI) — There are sports fans who say John Havlicek could have made it in pro football instead of basketball and maybe some National Basketball Association opponents wish he had.

But, thus far in a tournament of "super stars," the ace of the Boston Celtics has proven himself as an outstanding all around athelte.

The 6-foot-5 Havlicek went into the second and final day of the second phase of the tournament leading in one of the two divisions. The second group is led by professional bowler Nelson Burton, Jr. who Monday beat out Brad Park of the New York Rangers in a swimming meet.

But Havlicek's 20 overall points are more than any other totals of the 24 competitors. Burton, with 18, is closest, but since Havlicek is in a separate division, the Celtics' star is being chased by two other basketball all-stars—Billy Cunningham of the Carolina Cougars with 16 points and Jim McMillian of the Los Angeles Lakers with 14.

In 1962, Havlicek made all but the final cut with the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League but decided to join the Celtics. Monday, he scored in the top five among 24 competitors in tennis, golf, swimming, and bowling.

In group two, Burton is followed far back by Yvan Cournoyer of the Montreal Canadiens.

When the third and final of the superstar tournaments is held next year the winner will receive $82,000 in prize money from the event which is sponsored by a Florida land development firm.

Cerda grabs gold medal

POMONA — Tony Cerda Jr., 15, of Pomona won a gold medal to lead the Southern Pacific Association to the team championship at the National Junior Olympic Boxing Championships at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Cerda, who belongs to the Sacred Heart Athletic Club, decisioned Fred Tuddle of Bowie, Md. in the 147-pound classification to win the gold medal.

Other Southern California champions were Francisco Flores of Pacoima, 125 pounds; Ricky Weigel of Pasadena, 139 pounds; and Don Myne of Hawthorne, 165 pounds.

Tony Requena, 14, of Pomona had to settle for a silver medal when he lost a debatable decision to Ruben Lincoln of Las Cruces, N.M. in the 100-pound class.

Cerda will be entering his sophomore year at Garey High while Requena will be a freshman at Fremont Junior High.

Henry Segura of Pomona and Don Price of Ontario served as referees at the championships.

Golden Girls suffer loss

RIALTO — The Montclair Golden Girl minor leaguers dropped a 13-9 decision to Highland Monday night in second round action of the double elimination Rialto Tournament at Lilac Park.

Terri Williams suffered the setback as she was touched up for six runs in the second frame.

Montclair outslugged Highland 13-10 but were unable to make up the deficit.

Elisa Soloranzo and Theresa Luna banged out three singles each in a losing effort.

The Major League Golden Girls resume play tonight when they battle Norco No. 2 in a 6 p.m. contest. The minors resume play Wednesday at 6 p.m. against Rialto No. 2. Both games will be played at Lilac Park.

National League

Battling Bucs win

The Pittsburgh Pirates aren't letting their internal problems inhibit their drive to the top of the National League East.

The Pirates' clubhouse has been the scene of some small scale battles the last couple of days with manager Bill Virdon being involved in separate incidents with third baseman Rich Hebner and pitcher Dock Ellis.

Virdon's clash with Hebner came about 30 minutes after Sunday's game in which Hebner allegedly called the manager a few obscene names because Virdon had removed his third baseman from the game for defensive purposes in the ninth inning. The two men narrowly missed engaging in fisticuffs.

Ellis and Virdon got into a disagreement recently when the Pirate manager ordered his pitcher to stop wearing hair curlers on the playing field during practice. Ellis was told by Virdon that the umpires would fine him if he continued to wear them, and Ellis has since accused Commissioner Bowie Kuhn of being the instigator.

To the Pirates' credit, however, the incidents haven't gone beyond the clubhouse. On the field the Pirates are playing solid baseball as evidenced by their nationally-televised 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night which moved them to within two games of division-leading St. Louis.

In the only other scheduled NL games, Houston blanked St. Louis 4-0, Los Angeles topped Montreal 8-5 and San Diego edged New York 3-2.

"You have to let clubhouse animosities stay in the clubhouse and concentrate on the game," said pitcher Nelson Briles, who beat the Reds with 8 1-3 innings of seven-hit pitching. "Once you take the incidents on the field you're in trouble. This team is too loose to do that sort of thing."

Willie Stargell belted his 34th homer and also scored another run to spark the Pirates' victory over the Reds, and the victory put the Pirates only one game behind the Cardinals in the loss column.

"Nobody is really running away with this thing," said Stargell. "We haven't been consistent and if we get a winning streak going we'll make our move. Actually I don't mind being around .500 going down the stretch. In the last two years we were ahead by nine or 10 games and the two weeks of idleness at the end of the season made me stale in the playoffs."

Dave Roberts tossed a five-hitter and Jim Wynn hit his 18th homer as the Astros handed the slumping Cardinals their eighth loss in a row. Once again poor defense haunted the Cardinals as they committed five errors. Roberts, boosting his record to 12-9, walked only one and struck out four.

Derrel Thomas atoned for an eighth inning error with a game-winning double in the ninth inning as the Padres beat the Mets. Thomas' throwing error had allowed the Mets to push across the go-ahead run in the eighth inning, but his two-out double scored Dave Winfield to cap a two-run ninth. Jon Matlack went all the way for the Mets and was the hard luck loser.

Sports news in brief

APPRENTICE JOCKEY Steve Valdez extended his riding lead over veteran Bill Shoemaker to six wins Monday by collecting four wins at Del Mar. The 17-year-old Valdez rode winners in the third aboard Southern Rain, Astride Franmama in the fourth, Sailing Shadows in the sixth and Daddy's Datsun in the eighth.

CATFISH HUNTER, who suffered a broken thumb in the All-Star game last month, may pitch later this week, says Oakland Athletic manager Dick Williams. Hunter threw batting practice before Monday night's game with the Boston Red Sox and suffered only minor discomfort. "He can still feel some pain," Williams said. "It's just a question of how long that soreness will stay there. I can use him the end of the week, if I want. He'll throw batting practice a few more times."

Chisox discover Forster too late?

By United Press International

That extra starting pitcher for whom the Chicago White Sox have been searching this season may have been on their roster all the time.

Unfortunately, the "discovery" of Terry Forster may have come too late for the White Sox to get back into the American League's Western Division race. For all Wilbur Wood's enormous contribution by working on a three-day rotation since the start of the season the White Sox are in third place 10 games behind the first-place Kansas City Royals.

Forster, a 21-year old babyfaced left-hander who made 62 relief appearances for the White Sox last season, was pressed into service as a starter Monday night and pitched his first complete game since he pitched for Santana High School in Santee, Calif. —a 5-2 five-hit victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

"Starting is a lot of fun because you can make five or six mistakes and still win," said Forster. "Coming in with men on consistently you can't afford one mistake. You also have to use your best pitches all the time and can't develop new ones."

"We're going to use him as a starter and also spot relief," said Manager Chuck Tanner. "Eventually, we would like to use him exclusively as a starter."

The Oakland A's defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3-1, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Texas Rangers, 7-4, the Detroit Tigers routed the Minnesota Twins, 9-3, and the New York Yankees downed the California Angels, 6-0, in other AL games.

Designated hitter Carlos May drove in three runs with a homer and a single to pace the White Sox' eight-hit attack which dealt Jim Slaton his 10th loss. Forster walked four and struck out five as he raised his won-lost record to 4-4. The White Sox' victory snapped the Brewers' five-game winning streak.

John Odom, whose early-season ineffectiveness hurt the A's badly, went 8 1-3 innings to win his third game of the season with the relief aid of Rollie Fingers.

Dodgers take on extra job

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — When the long season is over, there are a few baseball players who will work at unpaid, off-season jobs.

Pete Richert and Al Downing, a pair of valuable pitchers for the Los Angeles Dodgers, will not be going on the banquet circuit to collect extra loot even if the team is involved in the world series.

They will be talking but it won't be on the banquet circuit. They will be talking to groups of young persons about drug abuse.

Richert is president of a growing non-profit group called athletes for youth.

"We speak to kids in junior and senior high schools about drug abuse," Richert explains. "We give them a real good concept of the dangers but it's not just a scare program. We take away one of the excuses they may have for using drugs — the excuse that they don't know what can happen to them from a health standpoint and otherwise. We tell them what can happen . . . not what will happen."

Richert and Downing will be joined by ex-Dodger Jim Lefebvre and Tom McCraw of the California Angels at the season's end to fill the speaking schedule already lined up. Lefebvre is playing with the Lotte Orions in Japan this season but he'll be back, Richert says.

"We don't go into this cold," says Richert. "We go to the drug abuse centers at UCLA and USC and they fill us in different drugs. They tell us what's going on in the neighborhoods. And we go to Methadone treatment centers and rap with the addicts about the latest in drugs. There's no sense talking about heroin if the kids are using something else."

In the Los Angeles area, Richert and company will speak at about 100 schools and they have other appearances lined up at Concord, N.C, Danville, Ill., and Panam City, Fla.

"We'd like to get as many athletes as possible involved in our program," Richert says. "We don't care whether they're baseball players or football players as long as they want to get involved. We have an office and a secretary and we'll answer any inquiries about how to get going. The baseball commissioner's office is referring inquiries to us and we have literature available on drug abuse."

Richert wants the office telephone number broadcast and used by anyone interested—(213) 649-1313.

"Funny thing," he mused, "the kids ask very few questions about baseball. What we do is involve them in what they're interested in. They want to hear about drugs. Sometimes they ask about booze and we tell them the possibly disastrous physical effects on their liver and their brain. Two of us usually take about 45 minutes each for our talks. Then we answer questions for about 15 minutes. And we usually hang around for another half hour in case a kid wants to talk in private."

Richert, 33, got involved when he was with the Baltimore Orioles a few years ago.

"Jay Joffberger, one of the owners, asked a few of us if we'd like to work with kids in the city," he said. "I agreed and I found I enjoyed it. It's a challenge. Some of the kids try to be wise guys and stump you with questions but we have most of the answers. We know the lingo.

"Sometimes they'll ask what to do about a friend who's using. We tell them to wait until he's ready to come off it. That's the time you've got to be available to talk to him. If he doesn't want to listen, you're wasting your breath.

"I interview addicts who wanted to get on the methadone program at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

The best way to borrow $1000.
If you need a few thousand dollars or more, consider the people who make individual loans worth millions.
At Commercial Credit we lend millions of dollars to some of America's largest corporations. For things like huge office buildings. Power stations. Freighters.
But for all the millions we lend business, we lend just as much to people like you. Because we feel the reasons you need money are as important as the reasons a big company needs money.
For cash to pay off bills—or whatever the reason—see the people who understand all kinds of money problems. Commercial Credit.

ZACCA-REX! ZACCA-REX RABBIT! ZACCA-REX!
A new breed of fashion fur comes to Southern California—at Buffums now!

SO. CALIF.—Buffums is currently introducing an exclusive new species of rabbit fur with the velvety smooth touch and look of Chinchilla. In a fast changing fur market, that revolves around the woman seeking a fur to cover all her activities, 'round the clock and the California climate', ZACCA-REX is a smash!

Culminating from years of research and experimentation in California, Zacca-Rex comes in a range of rich colors from pure white to jet black with a lovely spectrum of browns from darks to delicate lights.

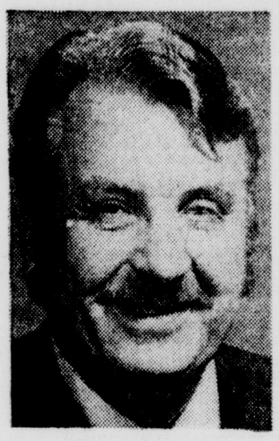

The Chinchilla shades are proving to be especially popular, according to Buffums fur buyer, Howard Root. As he points out, the softness and plushness of the Racca-Rex, coupled with the subtle Chinchilla shades, make it almost indistinguishable from the real thing.

Because of its beauty and rarity, the Racca-Rex rabbit is more expensive than most rabbit coats. But it still prices well below most other furs. Making the fur even more appealing to today's contemporary fur buyer, Zacca-Rex has greater durability and never sheds (a frequent complaint about rabbit fur).

Buffums garnered the initial output of the exclusive Zacca-Rex pelts and is offering them now in all Buffums stores in battle jackets, fur and leather looks, ¾ coats, full length furs that zip off to a variety of versatile lengths, etc.

H & R BLOCK OFFERS TWO TAX COURSES

"H & R Block, America's Largest Tax Service, will offer two tax courses here beginning in mid-September," stated Mr. James Auck, local manager in Pomona. "The first course will provide instruction in basic tax preparation, Mr. Auck said, "while the second will give advanced tax training to those with a working knowledge of income taxes." Mr. Auck pointed out that the ever increasing detail work involved in preparing tax returns makes it imperative that a tax man or woman know their job thoroughly, hence the necessity for the basic and the advanced courses. "One of the most exciting things about the H & R Block Tax Courses is that when successfully completed, a job interview will be arranged if you so desire. Graduates of the course are under no obligation to accept employment." Mr. Auck stated.

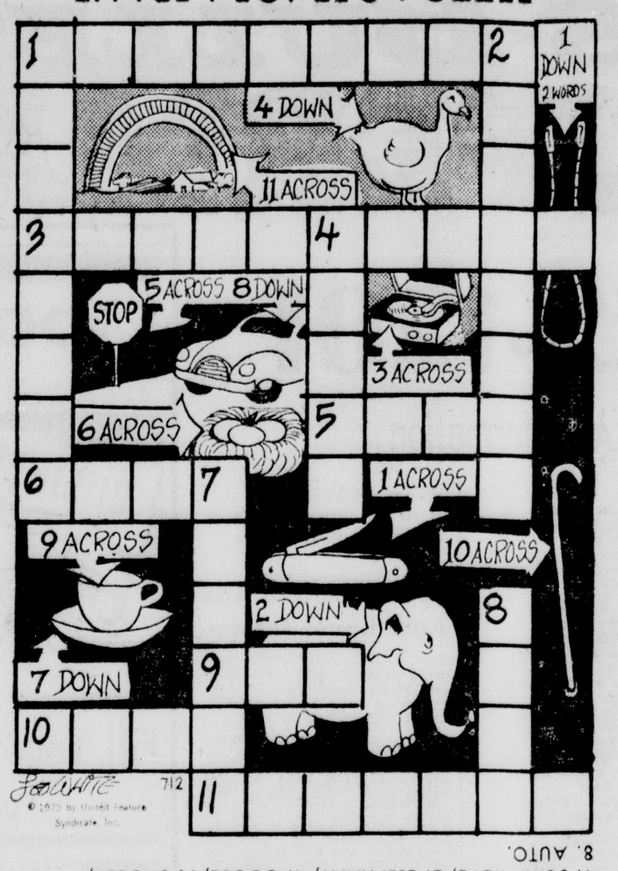

The modest tuition fees charged for these courses includes all textbooks, supplies, and tax forms necessary for completion of the schools. Both schools will begin in September and offer a choice of daytime or evening classes.

The Basic Course Curriculum contains a total of 81 hours of instruction, presented in 27 three hour sessions, over a 13½ week period, and features practical application in all major areas of individual income tax preparation, including Federal, State and local returns.

The Advanced Tax Course consists of 20, three-hour sessions (2-classes weekly) over a 10-week period and provides in-depth coverage of individual, partnership, fiduciary, corporate, and other complex tax situations. The instructors for both the basic and advanced courses are all experienced Block personnel.

"Prospective students may obtain additional information or register for either school at the H & R Block office, 110 West Holt Blvd., Ontario, or they may call our office at (714) 983-1478 and we will be happy to send them the information necessary for enrollment." Mr. Auck said. I am available from 8:30 am to 8:00 pm Mon. through Fri. and 9:00 am to 5:00 pm on Sat. at the Ontario office and happy to discuss either school in detail with any interested party," concluded Mr. Auck.

Blood meal can help in protecting garden

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: It won't be long now before the deer will start slipping into the yard around the cabin again, helping themselves to our garden. Last year, though, we finally found a way to keep them out. It works and it is real simple and we thought some of your other readers might have the same problem and appreciate a friendly tip. All we did to keep the deer away was to sprinkle a heavy trail of blood meal around the outside of the yard. The deer seem to be afraid of this smell or something. Anyway they won't come across it. Worked like a charm!—B.E.

COMMENT: Blood meal, like other repellents depending on chemical odor varies in effectiveness. Often blood meal—the fresher the better—IS an effective deer repellent; not as effective as a well-trained dog, of course, but for those who prefer chemistry to canines, it is worth a try.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Bell is bigger than she was the last time she was carrying pups so we figure she is due for a bigger litter. Last time she had ten. It cost us a fortune to get the puppies' tails cut off. We want to do it ourselves this time but, of course, we don't want the puppies to bleed to death, either. We called the doctor about it and asked him how we could cut the tails off without getting them to bleed and he said the best thing to do would be to bite them off. My brother couldn't do this because he has false teeth and I don't know whether my teeth are sharp enough. I asked a young friend of mine if he would do it for me and he looked at me like he thought I was crazy. Another friend laughed and said the doctor was putting us on. We are going to have to do something when those puppies get here, what do you think it should be?—O.H.

Dear O.H.: The doctor did provide you with a technique you could sink your teeth into . . . Actually, there would probably be less hemorrhage caused that way than by whacking them off with a butcher knife or whatever. Neither technique is completely satisfactory, however. Undoubtedly, you would be money and pups ahead in the long run to let the doctor do it. (When done within the first few days, the docking and declawing procedures are easier on pups AND pocketbook.)

Neutrality of Chile's military to be tested

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As Chile hovers on the brink of civil war, the traditional neutrality of its armed forces is undergoing its severest test.

Evidence of the strain is seen in a reported plot against the Marxist regime of President Salvador Allende involving some crew members of two warships and in the abortive coup on June 29 by part of an armored regiment.

But the outbreaks have been small and so far easily contained. It is especially noteworthy that despite the polarization which is dividing the country between the extremes of right and left, it is the armed forces which continue to hold the confidence of both sides.

The army joins the political center in its hopes that violence will be avoided.

Oppose both demands

It opposes both the demands for a "popular dictatorship" by the radical Movement of the revolutionary left and the conspiracies of the rightist "Patria y Libertad."

The difficulties facing the Allende regime arise from the same issues that brought about last October's crisis and have intensified as Allende has pressed his efforts to impose socialism on a highly individualistic nation.

Incidents of terrorism have become daily occurrances.

A strike of 50,000 truck owners, joined by increasing numbers of taxi and bus drivers and by professional groups including doctors, lawyers and teachers, is isolating Chile's cities and cutting heavily into essential supplies.

Santiago, the capital, is said to be receiving only 30 per cent of its normal supplies of food, gasoline and kerosene.

Another strike

In addition, a new strike hit the nationalized El Teniente mine.

About 5,000 engineers and technical personnel struck in protest against the government's refusal to rehire 97 miners who were suspended for participating in an El Teniente walkout earlier this year. That walkout was said to have cost the nation about $60 million.

The striking truck owners accuse the government of failing to live up to last fall's agreement to make available new trucks and spare parts, and say the government is trying to set up a parallel organization to compete with their National Confederation of Truck Owners.

It was a truck owners' strike that touched off last October's crisis and nearly toppled the government.

This time they appear determined to finish the job.

The spreading strike and accompanying sabotage is another grave blow to Chile's already hard-hit economy in which this year's inflation is approaching 300 per cent.

Industrial and agricultural production both are down.

Story's information on eggs unreliable

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M. D.

DAR DR. LAMB — I heard something that doesn't make sense to me. I was told that a health magazine said if you have your own hens and have a rooster the eggs are not high in cholesterol. Is there anything to this?

Dear Reader — Absolutely nothing. It's complete nonsense. I wouldn't be too surprised to find that it was published in a "health" magazine. A good many of these that are available to the public are full of misinformation. This is because most of them do not have physicians or any medically trained individuals on their editorial board. Some of these should be called quack magazines and not health magazines.

From the amount of mail that I get citing misinformation in a number of health maganzines, I am impressed that people don't realize that because something's being published doesn't necessarily mean it's true. Under our system of reedom of the press, almost anything can be published somewhere, whether it's true or not. Public responsibility should be exercised by ethical editorial boards, and the best safeguard to help see to it that they remain ethical is a well informed public.

Wild misinformation about health matters, including nutrition, fad diets and exotic cures for everything from quack cures for arthritis to impotence, flourishes because of a vacuum—a vacuum real- of a vacuum—a vacuum really created by ignorance. The best defense against these practices, therefore, is a good public education program that teaches people enough about health and all of its ramifications to help protect them from misinformation and fraudulent practices.

DEAR DR. LAMB —I am 52 years old and am allergic to milk. It makes my abdomen swell, and I have intense pain in that area when i drink it or eat any food containing it. Since I have omitted milk from my diet I am not longer plagued with this problem. Could you tell me what I can do to get the clcium I need.

Dear Reader — Unfortunately, most of the calcium in our diet comes from milk and milk products. Canned sardines and canned salmon are good sources of calcium, particularly if you eat the bones. Some of the milk substitutes can be used for people with your problem. These are usually made from soybeans and will have calcium added to them. You may have to get a milk substitute of this type from one of the health food stores. In some of the supermarkets you can find milk substitutes, usually made out of soybeans in the baby food department (for babies who do not tolerate lactose). Your doctor could prescribe some calcium tablets for you.

Mature bean seeds, such as navy beans or white beans, are a useful soure for calcium and one of the better among the vegetable groups, but even so you'd have to eat a lot of mature bean seeds to meet your calcium requirements, if you have none from other sources. You might like to try some of the fist meal or flour products. Fish meal, particularly if it's ground up with the bones, is a rich source of broth protein and calcium. It can be added to tomato juice and various foods.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. EAP-9843

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES. In the Matter of the Estate of BESSIE C. CASEY, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on or after August 21st 1973, the undersigned, KENNETH R. CASEY, as Executor of the Will of Bessie C. Casey, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest and best net bidder, subject to confirmation by the above entitled Superior Court thereafter, all the right, title, interest and estate of the decedent at the time of her death, and all right, title and interest the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of her death, in and to that real property located in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, described as follows:

"Lot Ten (10), Block "E", Casa Grande Tract, City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 15, page 104 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County."

Bids or offers are invited for this property and must be in writing and may be delivered to the Executor or to the office of his attorneys, Nichols, Stead, Boileau & Lamb, 400 United California Bank Building, No. 315 Pomona Mall West, Pomona, California, or may be filed in the office of the clerk of said Superior Court at any time after the first publication of this notice and before the making of said sale.

Terms and conditions of sale: CASH in lawful money of the United States of America; 10% of the amount bid to accompany the offer and the balance to be paid upon confirmation of sale by the Superior Court and completion of escrow thereafter. Real property taxes and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of recording of conveyance.

The estate will furnish to the successful purchaser a policy of title insurance and the estate will pay the usual seller's expenses of an escrow as is the practice in Pomona, California, and shall make such repairs as may be reasonably required by a lender.

The property herein described is commonly referred to as No. 204 East Jefferson, Pomona, California. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated: August 6, 1973

CAREER OPPORTUNITY
Are you in a job where your earnings are not adequate? Where the conditions are not pleasant or you don't see an opportunity for growth?

We have an opportunity for you to accomplish all three of these things in our organization. Our most successful men never sold anything before becoming associated with us, but are now making substantial incomes and some of them have become managers.

We will give you carefully planned, personalized classroom and on-the-job training to assure your success.

Why not let us talk with you. We will not employ you unless we both agree that you have a better-than-ever chance of being successful at Forest Lawn. Help people make arrangements in advance of need.

Kona Kai Village

GARDEN APARTMENTS

We always offer our tenants the "extras" in modern apartment living—plus a few more. All those little (and big!) things that make your apartment much more than just a place to live, such as:

- Viking saunas
- Children's and adult recreation facilities
- Two large pools
- Covered parking with storage lockers
- Private patios
- 9.5 acres of beautiful landscaping
- 1 and 2 bedrooms — also studios
- Furnished or unfurnished

But, above all else, we offer out tenants modern, clean, and spacious apartments that are professionally managed. Isn't that what you're really after?

MOTOR TREND MAGAZINE, MAY, 1973.

THE FOX BY AUDI

1st Showing — Now Here!

A Fox is quick (0 to 50 in 10 seconds). It's surefooted (front-wheel drive). This sly, cunning sedan can take the sharpest turns nimbly (sports car type steering and suspension). It can stop straight in its tracks (special braking—steering systems). And it doesn't eat much (23 miles per gallon). Best of all, for a reasonable price you can catch the Fox.

Improved techniques seen for television

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard C. Wald, President of NBC News, sees the day approaching when big cities will be wired up so that television crews and other media reporters will be able to transmit pictures and text from sources of power at or near the site of news events.

Wald said this advance, perhaps within the decade, was one of the dramatic changes in news coverage television is now anticipating with the development of smaller, more stable, more portable cameras and other equipment.

"Some of our present equipment is so cumbersome it's like writing with a 12-ton pencil," Wald said. "But there's a new technology shaping our future, the rapid acceleration of miniaturization, which is making equipment so compact and reliable that tv will soon develop the flexibility of radio.

"And radio is the closest to life. All you need is a phone."

Wald said that if New York, for example, were ideally wired for media purposes there would be power boxes at the base of telephone poles into which television or other equipment could be plugged ready to send pictures or text to studios or editorial offices.

"And in the case of tv within 45 minutes there would be pictures on the air", he said in an interview.

Wald said new equipment now coming into service was so light and ingenious that two people can, in effect, carry a complete studio with them.

"Just getting our staff into place has been taking half a day", he said. "But we are already operating four portage backpack tape machines. With these we can do a press conference, hand the tape to a motorcycle rider and rush it to the studio for broadcast.

"With what's coming we'll be able to get the equivalent material of a huge truck into a Volkswagen estate car. We're planning our next crash equipment. Instead of a truck we will have three little cars each carrying an electronic handheld camera weighing some 50 to 60 pounds and some tape playback capacity. If it becomes a major event we can send out another shipment and have up to six cameras on the scene.

"What we're getting to is like Sinbad the Sailor. You hold the crystal ball in your hands and wish up the pictures."

Wald said there is a trend towards increasing news time on the air.

"It's only 10 years since Huntley-Brinkley went from 15 to 30 minutes and local news went up from 30 minutes to an hour," he said. "On the West Coast KNBC has one of the most successful news shows, two and a half hours. There is an appetite for news. Within a few years we may see the first all news TV stations."

Wald, whose background includes years as a newspaper journalist, sees this competition as good for all the news media.

"It will be the difference between mass and class", he said, "with television the mass."

I.Q. of 145 And A Poor Memory?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name, address, and zip code to: Memory Studies, 555 E. Lange St., Dept. 510-77, Mundelein, Ill. 60060. A postcard will do.

Island infant flown to U.S. for surgery

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Mary Punarii, born nine months ago on a South Pacific island, was recovering from a runny nose Sunday while awaiting surgery to correct a severe cleft palate.

Her mother, Mrs. Helene Punarii, who speaks little English, said Mary "slept a lot" during their 11-hour flight Saturday from Bora Bora, part of French Polynesia.

Islanders contributed money for the trip, the Hotel Bora Bora, where Mrs. Punarii worked as a receptionist until Mary's birth, paid their air fare, and an Oakland plastic surgeon will contribute his services. Surgery was scheduled for Thursday. The two will stay for three weeks at the home of a French-speaking hospital employe.

Bridge

Cue bids can be confusing

By Oswald & James Jacoby

IMP matches are definitely the best test of bridge skill, but even here there is a tremendous element of luck.

Now take a good look at the South hand. You respond one diamond to your partner's club opening. He rebids clubs, you raise him to three and he bids three spades.

It is clear that his spade call is some sort of cue bid. Is he suggesting a slam; asking you to bid three no-trump if you can stop spades or maybe telling you that he can stop spades and wants to try no-trumps if you can't stop hearts.

At Table 1 in an important team match South decided to bid three no-trump with his near stoppers in both major suits. North thought it showed a sure heart stopper and passed.

South was most unhappy with the king of hearts lead. He didn't have to be. East held just one high heart and no matter when he took it the suit blocked and only four heart tricks were available to the defense.

At Table 2 South decided against three no-trump and took his partner to five clubs. East opened the 10 of spades and declarer had to lose three tricks.

Jewish leaders dump Standard credit cards

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jewish leaders, angered over an alleged "pro-Arab" statement by the Standard Oil Co. of California, dumped 2,000 multilated company credit cards on Standard's doorstep Thursday.

Delivery of the two sacks of cards to Standard Oil headquarters here marked the latest in a series of protests over a letter written to stockholders and employes by board chairman Otto N. Miller.

"We feel Mr. Miller's letter gives confidence to Arab terrorists and promotes anti-Semitism," said Phil Blazer, publisher of Israel Today.

U.S. pullout in Cambodia to leave Lon Nol stranded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American warplanes will cease all attacks on Communist forces in Cambodia this week leaving the government of President Lon Nol to defend itself without the U.S. air support which has played such a large role in the past.

This will mark the end of direct U.S. military intervention in Indochina —the final military act in a long and traumatic struggle with many of the aspects of a Greek tragedy.

President Nixon did not ask Congrest to extend its Wednesday dedline for the air attacks, obviously feeling he had getting approval. However, the President told Congress that its action setting the deadline risked "dangerous political consequences" in Indochina.

Warning unchecked

The President's warning failed to move Congress or stir any appreciable support among the American public. It was taken as just one more expression of the "domino theory" used so often to justify continued U.S. military activities in the area.

The immediate question posed by the end of the bombing is whether Lon Nol's forces can hold Phonm Penh against the well-organized Communist elements under the control and direction of Hanoi. Most American officials see little hope that the government forces could prevent fall of the capital in the face of a determined Communist effort.

But some officials doubt the Communists really want to capture Phonm Penh and assume the responsibility for feeding and otherwise caring for the refugee-swollen city.

Many American diplomatic officials believe that some members of the Lon Nol government and leaders of the opposing forces will find a purely Cambodian solution of the sort which eludes Western logic.

N. Vietnam key

However, the consensus in informed quarters here is that North Vietnam probably holds the key to any long-term solution in Cambodia.

The Cambodian Communists, estimated at 50,000 to 100,000, are a fairly effective force built around a group of Hanoi-trained leaders who are quite efficient and also quite independent of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who was deposed as chief of state more than three years ago.

Experts here do not foreclose the possibility that Hanoi will use Sihanouk as a figurehead for their political aims in Cambodia, but there is no doubt here who would run the show.

Whether Cambodia, under some coalition or otherwise, is able to operate as an independent and sovereign nation may depend upon the pressure Peking is able to bring to bear and the lure of promised reconstruction aid from Washington.

China is believed very opposed to any major expansion of North Vietnam's power into other parts of Southeast Asia and presumably will work for a relatively independent Cambodia.

The United States is dangling the prospect of more than $1 billion in economic aid to North Vietnam over the next five years as an inducement to Hanoi to stop violating the cease-fire in Vietnam and to withdraw its troops from Laos and Cambodia.

If all this comes about, Washington may have succeeded for the time being in delaying the completion of the revolution which began in Southeast Asia 30 years ago and shows few signs of having run its course.
